Upper Sandusky Father and Son Killed in Auto Collision

3 Others In Family Injured

Driver of Second Auto in Head-On Crash Also Hurt

Special To The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Nov. 26—An Upper Sandusky man and his 3-month-old son were killed Saturday night when the car in which they were riding collided with another car on Route 53, a mile south of McCutchenville in Wyandot County. Four other persons were injured in the accident.

Dead are John Ruehle, 36, a milk pick-up route driver, and his infant son, Donald Paul. Coroner B. H. Hathaway said Mr. Ruehle's death was the result of a broken neck, and that a fractured skull caused the child's death.

Head-On Collision

They were traveling south in a car driven by Mr. Ruehle's wife, Vera, when the car collided with a northbound car driven by Frank McKenzie of Carey.

Karl Stansbery, deputy sheriff who is investigating the accident reported the cars hit practically head-on. Both were demolished.

The crash occurred at 10 p.m. on a curve of Route 53 near "High Banks," a fishing spot on the Sandusky River. The Ruehles were returning from Fremont where they had been visiting Mr. Ruehle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ruehle.

Mrs. Ruehle suffered a fractured knee cap and her daughters, Barbara Jean, 10, and Marilyn, 8, each suffered a broken leg. They were taken to Mercy Hospital in Tiffin by a Tiffin ambulance.

Son Uninjured

A son, Kenneth, 5, escaped injury and was taken by a passing motorist to the home of an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gilliland of McCutchenville.

Mr. McKenzie was taken by the Bringman ambulance of Upper Sandusky to Wyandot Memorial Hospital for treatment of a deep scalp laceration, concussion, and shock.

Neither he nor Mrs. Ruehle have been able to give a statement concerning the cause of the accident.

Services Set Thursday

The bodies of Mr. Ruehle and his son were taken to the Bringman and Co. Funeral Home, where funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday. The Rev. W. A. Tabbert will officiate. Burial will be in Nevada Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

Besides his wife, children, and parents, Mr. Ruehle is survived by a sister, Mrs. Gilliland, and two brothers, Eugene of Findlay and Robert of Fremont.

Christmas Savings Club Checks Mailed

By Saturday approximately 4,075 Marionites will have received checks totaling some $267,500 from Christmas savings clubs at Marion's three banks and the Home Federal and Marion Federal Savings and Loan Companies.

Checks from the two savings and loan firms were received by club members Friday.

The three banks will complete mailing of the checks this week. All members of the clubs will receive their checks by Saturday.

The $267,500 total is a new high for Marion in the Christmas Savings club program.

All five institutions reported an increase over last year's totals both in the number of subscribers and the amount saved.

The 1952 clubs may be started this week or next, Bank and Savings and Loan spokesmen said.

Streamliners Meet Headon

Rail Wreck Kills 18, Hurts 60 In South

WOODSTOCK, Ala., Nov. 26—(AP)—The crushing, headon collision of two New York-New Orleans streamliners killed 18 and injured 60 yesterday, and additional victims were hunted in the wreckage today.

The silvery northbound Southerner pulled from a siding here into the path of the onrushing southbound Crescent. The sledgehammer crash turned the first car of the Southerner into a giant coffin.

The trains met on a high railroad trestle 29 miles southwest of Birmingham. The Crescent was using the Southern tracks because a bridge was out on the Louisville and Nashville lines near New Orleans, 320 miles away.

Slammed Back 80 Ft.

The Southerner had stopped after pulling out from the siding. The Crescent rounded a curve and roared into it.

"We were slammed back 80 feet," said George Newton, seminary, Miss., a passenger in the third coach of the northbound train. "Everybody was running through the train screaming."

Normally the Crescent operates over the Southern to Atlanta, over the West Point route to Montgomery, Ala., and thence to New Orleans via the L. & N.

All of the known dead were on the Southerner, most of them in the first car, which was smashed like an eggshell. Trainmen said P. J. Powers, Birmingham, engineer of the northbound train, was killed and his body caught in the wreckage. It had not been recovered.

15 In One Car

Fifteen Negro dead were removed from the ill-fated car, the "Mississippi," a combination baggage-passenger coach with 22 seats.

It was telescoped by the car behind it.

Rescue workers cut into the car with torches to bring out the victims.

One of the first was a plump, unmarked baby girl of 2 or 3. She was still warm, but dead.

K. C. Shults, division superintendent of the Alabama Great Southern (a division of the Southern Railway) said there was no indication that safety signals which should have stopped the

Employment Agency Here Is Enlarged

Will Now Include Hardin, Wyandot In Its Service

W. F. Lunsford, director of the Ohio State Employment Service, announced today that the administrative area of the Marion office had been enlarged to include Hardin and Wyandot counties, as well as the present territory of Marion and Morrow counties.

Fred B. Scherff, manager of the Marion office of the Ohio State Employment Service, will be in charge of the four counties.

At the close of business Friday the Kenton office serving Hardin County, and the Upper Sandusky office, serving Wyandot County, will be discontinued as full time offices and will become itinerant points under Marion.

The schedule of days representatives of the Marion office will be at the itinerant points to serve applicants and employers will be announced later.

Mr. Scherff said the Hardin and Wyandot offices will be closed since the claims load at the two did not justify their full time operations. He pointed out that employment was at a high peak and a relatively small number of claims were being handled.

He said the staff at the two offices would be absorbed in the Marion staff or at other offices throughout the state.

Taft Calls Charge By Truman Lie

Testifies at Senate Hearing on Ohio Election Campaign

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) described as "completely false" today the assertion by President Truman that "special interests" poured money into Ohio in 1950 to re-elect Taft to the Senate.

Testifying at a Senate hearing, Taft said it was his opponents, not his supporters, who poured out the funds in the campaign. He added:

"They were guilty of excessive use of money, pouring funds into Ohio from every state in the union—"they used false front organizations, they sent carpetbaggers and outside organizers into Ohio, they based their campaign on lies and misrepresentations about my personal life."

The campaign against him, Taft declared, "represented a sinister conspiracy" in which his opponents "apparently would stop at nothing."

Taft, now a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year was reelected to the Senate in 1950 by a 430,000 vote margin over Joseph T. Ferguson, his Democratic opponent.

Ferguson charged during the campaign that excessive expenditures were being made in behalf of Taft.

"Welcomes" Probe

An investigation is being conducted by a Senate elections subcommittee, headed by Senator Gillette (D-Iowa).

Taft said he welcomed the investigation if it also went into expenditures by the opposition and inquired into defamatory literature Taft said was circulated against him. Gillette said the group would inquire into all phases of the campaign.

President Truman said in a recent address to the National Democratic Women's Club here that "special interests poured money into Ohio last year" to elect Taft and "now they will be thinking if money can win an election in Ohio, maybe money can win a national election."

Taft went before the committee with a prepared statement of 22,000 words.

He said in it that "apparently outsiders are trying to divert this committee's proper purpose to a purely Democratic political maneuver."

"Last week the President made a completely false statement about the Ohio elections," Taft went on.

Smear Weapon

"I have sufficient confidence in my colleagues of this committee to know that they will not permit outsiders in the Democratic national committee or the President of the United States

ILLINOIS BOWL CHOICE

Negotiators Reach Full Buffer Zone Agreement

"Weakest of Possible Nominees"

Truman Facing Defeat, Sen. Byrd Declares

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 —(AP)— Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said he regards President Truman as "weaker today than any" other possible Democratic nominee for the the presidency in 1952 and he does not think the President can be re-elected.

Byrd, perhaps Mr. Truman's bitterest critic within his own party, said however it is his personal belief "that he is going to run if he thinks he can win," and he added: "I've been doing all I can to help him make up his mind. I do not think he can be elected if nominated."

Mr. Truman has said he has decided whether he will run again but is not ready to announce his decision.

Woman Proposed

Meanwhile, Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) proposed that the Republicans nominate for the vice presidency the Senate's only current woman member, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. Mrs. Smith said she is not a candidate.

Byrd, in an interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, left little doubt if Mr. Truman wins the Democratic nomination again, he will continue to oppose him. In 1948, the senator opposed him up to and during the party convention, but remained silent thereafter.

"Conditions were different in '48 from what they are now," Byrd said. "Today I am convinced that Mr. Truman would bring this country to disaster if his program is adopted.

"I feel further that his re-election in 1952 x x x could rightfully be claimed by him to be a mandate from the people to put through this program in its entirety."

Byrd said, as he did in a recent speech in Alabama, that Southerners should fight against Mr. Truman's nomination through the convention and "hold ourselves free to do whatever may be necessary" thereafter if Mr. Truman is re-nominated.

He said he "couldn't say" whether Southerners who feel as he does would support the GOP ticket if the President runs again.

Opposition Growing

"I think the opposition to Mr. Truman and his policies is very much greater in the South than it's ever been before.

"Four southern states, as you recall, voted the states' rights ticket last time and thereby broke the belief on the part of many that in the South you have to vote the Democratic ticket in order to stay in politics. Those in the four states who led the fight to leave the Democratic party in 1948 are stronger than those who opposed leaving the Democratic party."

Asked about feeling in the South toward Chief Justice Vinson, mentioned by some as a possible candidate behind whom it might be possible to unify the party, Byrd said any such move would depend in part upon the platform. He added:

"Nobody knows that Mr. Vinson would accept if nominated."

Aiken's boost for Mrs. Smith as a possible vice presidential nominee was made in an interview.

Ask Caudle About Laxity In Tax Fraud

Must Explain "Pressures" Subjected To in His Work

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—House investigators called former assistant attorney general, T. Lamar Caudle, today for public questioning about his handling of tax fraud prosecutions.

The hearings before a House ways and means subcommittee also will give the ousted justice department official a chance to explain the outside "pressures" to which he has said he was subjected in his tax work.

There were advance hints that the pressures of which he spoke after resigning at President Truman's request might involve some members of Congress. But before acknowledging this "possibility," committee sources were mum.

As part of an overall probe of internal revenue scandals and irregularities, the subcommittee brought the justice department's tax division under scrutiny to determine why, in the words of Chairman King (D-Calif), so high a percentage of tax fraud cases were "dropped at higher levels."

Promises Cooperation

The subcommittee began public hearings on this phase of its probe without the open access to justice department tax files it wanted, but Attorney General McGrath said last night he intends that there will be "complete cooperation" between his department and the House unit.

In his statement, issued by the justice department, McGrath said it always had been his desire to make available to the subcommittee information concerning any tax case about which it has any complaint. But he stopped short of promising to open department files to the probers.

He said he wanted the subcommittee to be given "every help to properly complete its work and yet reserve the procedures and confidences of the department necessary to the successful administration of justice."

Meanwhile, Commissioner John B. Dunlap of the Internal Revenue Bureau told a reporter he expects to have an announcement this week on the situation in San Francisco, where collector James C. Smyth and 6 aides are under suspension and two others have been fired. Dunlap indicated there the bureau has been conducting investigations of its own.

As Caudle was called to open the House group's new hearings, there were indications that another mink coat would figure in the testimony.

The Washington Star said the House investigators planned to question Caudle about reports that a New York attorney paid $900 toward purchase of a $2,400 mink coat by Mrs. Caudle about 2 years ago.

There was no comment from

British Again Balk at U.S. Naval Proposal

Eisenhower Gives Pep Talk Before Defense Ministers

ROME, Nov. 26—(AP)—Qualified sources reported today that Britain again has turned down a proposal to set up an American-led North Atlantic naval command immediately.

They said also Prime Minister Churchill's government so far has refused to accept the American .30 Garand as the standard rifle for the Atlantic Allies.

Britain is still arguing in favor of adopting its own .280 rifle as the standard Allied rifle.

These developments emerged after Allied defense ministers met this morning in a special session with the North Atlantic treaty organization military committee, made up of 12 chiefs of staff.

The defense ministers accepted a plan to create a separate British-led naval command in the English Channel and the southern North Sea to guard the approaches and the ports in these vital waters.

The plan needs the okay of the Atlantic Council as a whole before it can be considered as finally adopted. That okay likely will come later today or sometime tomorrow. Earlier Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a 30-minute address to the military committee said peace without fear will come to Europe only if the West builds a strong defense line far to the East of the Rhine.

Inspirational

Aides described his talk as mainly "inspirational — neither pessimistic nor optimistic."

As the man who has built up SHAPE (Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe) Eisenhower gave the Chiefs of Staff assembled in the onetime Mussolini Stadium a report of "some progress here, some lagging there" in the drive for security.

One informant who listened said Eisenhower gave no clue, either by implication or by inflection of his voice, as to his personal future. Some diplomats here have been speculating Eisenhower might drop a hint about whether he intends quitting SHAPE in order to run for the U.S. presidency next year.

The Atlantic Pact supreme commander declared that the North Atlantic Treaty organization nations must pool sovereignty and "attempt the impossible" if there is to be any real security.

Eisenhower spoke to the military chiefs in advance of an appearance this afternoon before the 12-nation top NATO council at which he was scheduled to tell them they must step up their defense effort if they are to ensure peace through strength.

Eisenhower told the secret session of the chiefs of staff—"as one old soldier to another"—that

Location Of 145-Mi. Line Established

Iron Out Details In 7½-Hour Meeting: Final OK Set Tonight

MUNSAN, Korea, Nov. 26—(AP)—Allied and Communist staff officers tonight agreed on the exact location of a 145-mile line across Korea where the shooting will stop if an armistice is signed within 30 days.

Only signatures of the truce negotiators are needed to complete settlement of the second item on the armistice agenda—fixing a cease-fire line.

The subcommittees will meet in Panmunjom tomorrow at 10 a.m. (8 p.m. EST Monday) to approve the proposal. The full five-man armistice delegations will open a plenary session one hour later. Formal adoption of the buffer zone clause is expected to be a mere formality.

3 Other Points

Then in a race against the 30-day deadline and while the fighting goes on, the negotiators will work on three other points that must be agreed on before a full armistice can be signed.

The staff officers pinpointed the last sector of the cease-fire line at 6:30 p.m. (4:30 a.m. EST) after a marathon session lasting almost 7½ hours.

The official U.N. command communique said minor differences cropped up after the officers reached general agreement on the line of battle contact. All were ironed out and the line was drawn on two sets of maps which both sides initialed.

There will be a new member of the U.N. command armistice delegation at Panmunjom. Rear Adm. R. E. Libby was due in Munsan Tuesday to replace Rear Adm. Arleigh Burke. Burke has been a delegate since the truce talks began July 10. He is leaving for a new assignment in Washington. Libby, a native of Spokane, Wash., has been commander of Cruiser Division Three in Korean waters.

The cease-fire line approved by the negotiators will be the center of a demilitarized buffer zone 2½ miles wide if an armistice is signed within 30 days of the approval expected Tuesday.

Fighting To Go On

The fighting will continue until an armistice is reached, and if the negotiators fail to reach agreement within the time limit, the line will be redrawn just before the truce goes into effect to cover battle changes.

After the buffer zone clause is formally approved, the truce delegations first will try to agree on measures for enforcing the armistice, including inspections behind the front lines.

Two other tough problems also must be solved before an armistice can become effective. They are the exchange of war prisoners and recommendations to the belligerent governments, including withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea.

Agreement on the proposed cease-fire line came four months after armistice delegations first tackled the problem—July 27.

Left Air Base 3 Other Times and Father Made Him Return

Caledonia Youth, AWOL From Service, Accused of Setting Fire To Spite Dad

A 17-year-old Caledonia serviceman faces a variety of charges, including being absent without leave from the U. S. Air Force, after being accused of attempting to set fire to the Farm and Home Lumber Co. at Caledonia Friday night.

He is being held in the Marion County jail pending filing of charges by the state fire marshal's office. Thomas Finch of Green Camp, deputy state fire marshal, reported today.

He also is accused of taking a rifle and ammunition and a flashlight from the company's store last Monday and with being absent without leave from Sheppard Field in Texas.

Finch said the youth had been living in the attic of the lumber yard office since last Monday without anyone knowing he was in town.

Finch said charges of attempted arson will be filed against the boy this week but no arraignment will be set until Air Force authorities were contacted. The Air Force will have priority on the charges and the absent airman could be returned to Texas before being brought into court here, Finch said.

Admits Starting Fire

Finch, assisted by Deputy Sheriff Dick Ruth and Marshal Edgar Fink of Caledonia, arrested the youth Friday night after he had admitted starting the blaze.

He said he set fire to spite his father, an employe of the lumber company. He had been at odds with his father since entering the service five months ago.

He had been AWOL from the Air Force three other times and his father, who had opposed his entering the service in the first place, made him return each time.

Broke Into Store

The youth told Mr. Finch he broke into the company store last Monday and stole the rifle and ammunition and a flashlight. He hid them in the store attic where he also concealed himself. He remained in hiding in the attic until Friday when he decided to set fire to the building, Finch said.

Authorities said he shoveled red hot coals from the furnace and dumped them near the paint rack

Grand Secretary Guest of Honor at Dinner Meeting

Abel Presents Portrait To Eagles

John A. Abel of Kansas City, Mo., grand secretary and chief auditor of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, formerly of Marion, presented his home Aerie with an oil painting of himself at a meeting of Buckeye Aerie 337 Wednesday. The portrait was done by Kay William and presented to the late Mrs. Abel at the Grand Aerie session in Detroit in 1949. Accepting the picture, in behalf of Buckeye Aerie was William A. Stout, worthy president of the local lodge.

In his presentation speech Mr. Abel talked of the accomplishments of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, both past and present.

He stressed the Memorial Foundation, a fund which provides the medical, dental and educational care that the fathers would have given had they not given their lives so that freedom and liberty might be enjoyed by those left behind. It is proving in a thousand ways that the greatness and lasting goodness of a living memorial can have no comparison to a dead monument in a city square, he said.

Founded in World War II

The Memorial Foundation was established during World War II to keep the promise of the Eagles that "we will not forget." Mr. Abel announced that the Foundation is now expanded to include the children of members who have lost their lives in the Korean conflict. It enables the widowed mother to keep her children under her own roof and have all the advantages that good health and good education can bring, he said.

Mr. Abel is a life member of Buckeye Aerie and has served as it president and also was secretary for 27 years. He served in all the State Aerie offices and was Ohio state president in 1933. In 1939 he was elected grand worthy president and at that time resigned as secretary of the local Aerie. In 1941 he was elected grand secretary and moved his family to Kansas City, Mo. Since then he has served as chief auditor and financial advisor to the Grand Aerie. He was always prominent in civic affairs while he lived in Marion and is well known in this community.

15 Initiated

During the meeting there was a class of 15 candidates initiated in honor of Mr. Abel. The ritual was exemplified by the Marion degree team accompanied by Buckeye Aerie band. The band also played a short concert under the direction of Oscar Kaelber.

Assistant City Solicitor G. A. Placentino, a member of the class, represented the new members with a talk.

Also present and giving a talk was the worthy president of the Guam Aerie 2913, Agana, Guam, Perry Miller, a former resident of Marion and son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Miller of Lake View, O. and brother of Mrs. Cleo Guy of Homer St. Mr. Miller has been stationed on Guam for the past six years with the Army Ordnance Department.

Present for the meeting were members from Springfield, Mansfield, Shelby, Crestline, Tiffin, Delaware, Willard, Kenton, Bellefontaine and Dayton.

100 Attend Banquet

Preceding the meeting there was a banquet served to approximately 100. Guests with Mr. Abel were Mayor Harold F. Robinson, who gave the welcoming address, Judge W. Dexter Hazen, Police Captain Clyde Hardin, Councilman Harold Smith, County Treasurer Marion Hinklin, City Treasurer Harry D. Cahill, Assistant City Solicitor Placentino, Safety Service Director Ralph Forrest, Calvin Oborn, clerk of courts, and Orla E. Barks and Howard McCurdy, township trustees.

Nelson, Edward and Roy Abel, brothers of the guest of honor, Philip Ebert and Otto Eibling, charter members, Mr. Miller, the class of candidates and their sponsors and many members of the local Aerie and visitors from other Aeries were also present.

The Buckeye Four, Eagle quartet, entertained after dinner with several selections. Frank Butterworth took the place of Robert Heimlich, the bass, who was called to Florida by the serious illness of his father-in-law. The dinner was prepared and served by members of the Ladies Auxiliary. Mr. Abel returned to Kansas City Friday after spending Thanksgiving with his sister, Mrs. Flora Mettler, and brothers and their families.

Arthur Sargel entered an innocent plea through his attorney, James Will of Mansfield.

Estimated 60 MPH

The northbound train had gone into the siding to allow its southbound companion train to pass. The 18-car Crescent was a few minutes behind the other southbound train.

Shults said the Crescent probably was running at about 60 miles an hour when it hit.

Seven cars on the Crescent left the tracks, with four plunging off the 40-foot embankment. Almost miraculously, no one was killed in the cars which dropped to the ground.

Next to the "Mississippi" was an extra coach on the Southerner and few if any passengers were using it.

The Southerner's eight cars were crowded with 214 passengers. Only 119 were on the Crescent.

Fuel from the Crescent's engine caught fire but was quickly put out.

Cecil Love, Birmingham, Southern engineer on the Crescent, was seriously injured. He told the ambulance driver who brought him to Bessemer to a hospital he "tried to jump out the cab door, but I couldn't get it open in time."

More than 40 ambulances from Birmingham, Bessemer and Tuscaloosa answered emergency calls broadcast by the state highway patrol.

Train Wreck Kills 5 In Idaho

ORCHARD, Idaho, Nov. 26—(AP)—Five crewmen were killed yesterday in the collision of two Union Pacific freight trains, a collision so violent that a huge overhead trestle plunged to earth, squashing a Diesel power unit.

The westbound freight, moving slowly but with the inertia of 68 loaded coal cars behind it, slammed into the front of the halted eastbound train.

Oil from smashed Diesel tanks spewed over the tangled wreckage, stacked 30 feet high. It mingled with coal from tangled freight cars, and blazed briefly into a fire which charred beyond recognition the bodies of four of the victims.

Sleet Storm Glazes Midwest, Moves East

By The Associated Press

A storm which dropped sleet and freezing rain on much of the Midwest Sunday was moving eastward Monday causing snow flurries and light rain.

Warmer weather in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York was expected to keep the storm from icing highways.

The Weather Bureau in Chicago said the storm started Saturday in Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, and has been moving slowly eastward.

Large portions of Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana were covered Sunday with a perilous coating of frozen rain making driving hazardous. Milder temperatures were expected to clear the area of its iciness.

U.S. Agrees To Private Arms Talks

PARIS, Nov. 26 —(AP)— The United States agreed today to get together with Russia for private disarmament talks as suggested by a group of Asian-Arab states, but expressed doubt as to the usefulness of the move.

Iraq, Pakistan and Syria submitted a resolution to the 60-member United Nations political committee asking that the Big Four—Russia, the United States, Britain and France—meet privately under the presidency of assembly president Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico to try to reconcile the western and Russian disarmament plans.

Ambassador Philip C. Jessup later told the committee the U. S. was ready to do this if the committee voted it. He pointed out, however, that the deputy foreign ministers of the four countries had tried for 14 weeks last spring to reach such an agreement without success.

Taft

himself to use his committee as a political smear weapon.

"I shall show today that the President's statements regarding the Ohio campaign are untrue."

Asserting that the 1950 opposition against him "had a peculiar Communist undertone," Taft said he "was subjected to the most vitriolic attack probably ever conducted against a candidate."

"The entire campaign was one of complete distortion of the facts," he said. "It included scurrilous personal attacks and literature which should bring shame to the faces of those who devised them."

Taft said "money was poured into Ohio by certain labor unions, notably the top organization of the CIO and AFL."

"The reports filed by my opponents are confused and uncertain," he said. "Many of the expenses incurred directly cannot be located by us in their reports. Other indirect expenses were in no way reported, such as the sum of $750,000 paid to the Mutual Broadcasting Co. for the Frank Edwards series of broadcasts which were devoted principally to attacks on me and against my re-election."

Edwards is a commentator who is sponsored by the American Federation of Labor.

Entirely Legal

Taft said "of the money spent by my committees, not one cent was spent for any purpose except a completely lawful purpose."

"We faced one of the bitterest and most completely organized campaigns ever planned against a candidate for senator and we had to meet that campaign," he added.

He said the combined strength of the CIO, AFL, Railroad brotherhoods, United Mine Workers, the Machinists "and numerous other big independent unions, as well as the Democratic organization in Ohio and the national administration in Washington" were arrayed against him.

"Much of the activity was directed right from the White House, and top administration leaders were sent into Ohio to help defeat me," he said.

Taft listed a large group of national figures he said had participated in the campaign against him, adding:

"To meet this campaign it was necessary to spend more money probably than in an ordinary campaign — your committee has the figures—but we had the job of reaching 5,000,000 potential voters in Ohio—a state with 8,000,000 population."

He said that of the total amount spent in Ohio by the Republicans —which the committee staff has figured at $1,800,000—only a proportionate part went to his campaign with the rest of the money going for the governor and state races.

Says New Tax Hike Breeding Inflation

Sen. Aiken Charges Measure Working In Reverse

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—The new $5,691,000,000 tax increase law is "working in reverse by breeding inflation instead of retarding it," Senator Aiken (R-Vt) said today.

The Vermonter told a reporter the law, which went into effect Nov. 1, hasn't slowed buying much if any and actually is pushing up living costs "because manufacturers are passing a big slice of the tax on to consumers in the form of higher-prices for their goods." He added:

"The cost of living goes up, workers demand and get higher wages, and you have the same vicious circle — except that the situation now is being aggravated."

Aiken expressed his views as the Senate-House committee on defense production called Price Director Michael V. DiSalle to a public hearing (10 a.m. EST) for a report on operation of the revised economic controls law Congress enacted last July.

An aide said DiSalle's report would deal mainly with what has happened under provisions which President Truman sharply criticized in signing the law. Mr. Truman asked for repeal of those provisions, which he said would make it more difficult to control inflation, but Congress adjourned last month without acting on the request.

Senator Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the joint committee, told newsmen he is reserving judgment on whether the law should be revised when Congress reconvenes in January.

Maybank meanwhile quoted elder statesman Bernard Baruch as telling him inflation is "this country's No. 1 enemy and, unless halted, will destroy the taxpayers."

MARTEL GRANGE TO MEET

Arthur Smith, Marion County agricultural extension agent, will be present Tuesday night at an open meeting of Martel Grange, when problems of the Farmers Institute to be held in February will be discussed. Richard Baldinger and John Martin are in charge of the program. Members of the Grange have been asked to take tea towels for the school kitchen to the meeting, which will begin at 8 p.m.

ANIMAL DRAMA IN RICHMOND. A cat and a mocking bird exchange menacing stares through an automobile windshield in a parking lot at Richmond, Va. The owner of the car, C. Held on Bad Check Charge

Roger A. Frazelle, 48, of Columbus is being held by city police on a bad check charge. A municipal court hearing will be held later pending a completion if investigation of the case.

Frazelle is charged with passing a worthless $20 check drawn on the National City Bank at the Robert E. Young Filling Station at N. Main St. and George St. Nov. 15.

Frazelle was arrested at the Young filling Station Saturday. He had returned to the filling station to talk to the owner when police officers stopped into the station in the course of investigation of the case.

Four other warrants are pending for his arrest in Marion and Galion police are holding a warrant for Frazelle's arrest, all on a bad check charge. Frazelle was arrested about one year ago in Marion by Sheriff's deputies for Columbus police on a charge of embezzlement.

he had been "horrified," when he came to Europe last January, at the idea of welding a single army out of the different European military forces.

But, he declared, he learned that "it must be done." The problem of security is so great that no one nation can discharge its responsibility for security alone, he said, adding:

"We must pool sovereignty—we must attempt the impossible."

of the store in his attempt to start a fire.

The hot coals were discovered by a company employe who had returned to work late at the office and the blaze was extinguished before any extensive damage could occur.

Found at Home

The youth was found soon after the fire was put out. Mr. Finch found him at his home. A quick investigation of his clothing showed paint on the pants, apparently picked up when he scaled the fence. He readily admitted to Finch he had started the blaze.

Finch was to confer today with Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo to determine what charges to file. The youth could be charged with breaking and entering and theft in addition to attempted arson.

AWOL Four Times

Air Force records received by local authorities show the youth has been AWOL four times since he entered the Air Force five months ago. He was released from the guard house Nov. 7 on the last charge.

The soldier had been in Caledonia from Monday until Friday without his parents knowing he was there. Authorities did not reveal how he obtained food during the week but indicated he might have left his hiding place at night.

Authorities first suspected the youth when his father suggested he probably would do such a thing if he were nearby. Shortly after his mother called the lumber yard to inform his father the youth was home. Finch found him taking a shower.

The sheriff's office reported ill feeling between the youth and his father had arisen since the boy entered the Air Force last summer. On each of the occasions he has turned up AWOL, his father has caused him to return. The father told authorities he had opposed his son's enlistment but finally give his consent. Since the enlistment, the soldier has developed a dislike for service life.

The four times he has left his Air Force post, the boy has hitchhiked from his base to Caledonia.

Cookbook Second Only to Bible

Food Still Ranking Topic of Conversation

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

WHAT'S the one topic of most interest to most people today?

It's not war or politics or even love.

It's food.

Listen in on any conversation at a large gathering of men and women, and fully half of the people will be talking about food.

Some will be describing their latest reducing diet, others will be discussing the newest vitamins and health foods and others will be exchanging recipes.

It is an established fact in the publishing field that cookbooks outsell all other publications except the Bible.

Even the Bible has many memorable references to food, such as the parable of the loaves and the fishes, and "land flowing with milk and honey."

It seems that men and women are interested first in their steak and potatoes and after that they are willing to take up more esoteric topics.

THE IMPORTANCE of food in the minds of the general public may explain the periodic food fads that sweep the country and always provide ground for hot controversy.

Such a controversy is going full tilt at the moment, with half the population gulping strange-tasting new "health foods" and the other half assailing them as faddists and fanatics.

Practically any well-dressed dinner table has its bottle of vitamin pills in full view, along with the salt, pepper and sodium glutamate. And mothers spend a great deal of time worrying whether their offspring are suffering from malnutrition, despite the fact that they eat three square meals a day, plus hearty snacks between times.

The diet fads come and go, but all of them find enthusiastic followers.

There was the time some years ago when millions of women all over the country were subsisting on an exclusive diet of shredded raw vegetables.

There was a period when people swore by a diet of bananas and skimmed milk—nothing else to take off weight. And there was the lamb-chop and pineapple era.

THERE HAVE BEEN popular lectures and writers who advised eating nothing but vegetables, fruits and nuts for health, and others who extolled the values of nothing but meat.

A popular diet at the moment is built around blackstrap molasses, yogurt and wheat germ.

Many nutritionists, however, point out that a normal diet of milk, fruit, vegetables, meat cereals and other common foods contains all the nutritional elements essential to health, without resort to extra dosages.

Most people are all too prone to try out any new diet mentioned by a friend, whether it consists of prunes or potatoes, raw vegetables or merely vitamin pills.

AS IN MOST other matters, it seems that plain common sense is the best guide to diet. When nature has provided us with an abundance of palatable natural foods, it seems logical to believe that these are what we are intended to eat.

And no matter how many food fads come down the pike, I doubt if the general population ever will be willing to substitute a food capsule for a hearty steak dinner.

That juicy T-Bone and fragrant apple pie just naturally taste better than any pill yet evolved by science.

Kenneth Pangborn was nominated as chairman for next year's banquet. He will be assisted by Mrs. Clifton Wenig, Mrs. Grace Fletcher, Mrs Mildred Kaelber, and George Bosley Sr.

The program, arranged by Mrs Danner, included group singing led by Oscar Kaelber with Mrs. Alma Downs as accompanist, a piano duet by Maxine and Ruth Bosley, a vocal solo by Mrs. Paul McMahan accompanied by Mrs. Madge Curl, a vocal duet by Shirley Pangborn and Everett Douce, and remarks by Deputy Master E. A Williams. The banquet was attended by 116 persons.

Ohio Christian Youth Rally Comes To End

COLUMBUS, Nov. 26—(AP)—A rally to spur a campaign to enlist 80,000 Ohio young people for Christian action ended in Columbus yesterday.

About 3,400 young people from 16 Protestant denominations attended the three-day rally. It was part of the nation-wide drive of the United Christian Youth Movement, with a goal of recruiting 1,000,000 young people by Feb. 3, 1952.

Dr. H. F. Lamb, president of the Ohio Council of Churches, told the young people progress had been made toward a united church. He said they "have inherited the foundation on which to build a world government."

Richard Wertz of Akron, a Yale University student, said protestantism needs a "reformation and a rejuvenation."

"We have allowed the church to do our religious thinking," Wertz said. "We've lost the spark of our own identity. Our churches need people who have seen God."

Denominations cooperating were Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Evangelical United Brethren, Episcopal, Evangelical and Reformed, Community, African Episcopal Zion, Congregational, Christian and Disciples of Christ.

Some 35 young people and youth workers from Marion attended sessions of the youth rally in Columbus. Added to a list of those attending the state youth conference from Marion which appeared in Friday and Saturday night editions of The Star, are Mary Ann Makeever and Sally McGinnis of the Wesley Methodist Church.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

"I'll ask Adams when we are safely back on our floor," I told Bess Conway with lowered voice, and she nodded her comprehension of my caution.

Then we followed Adams through the familiar routine of getting back to the hotel sub-basement through the labyrinth of sub-cellar rooms in the other building. When he reached our floor, I spoke to him before he opened the door

"Will you please find out whether or not any inquiries have been made concerning Miss Conway's presence in the hotel?"

I saw Adam's eyes flicker swiftly in Bess Conway's director, and knew that he had not recognized her in her disguising outfit. But he let no hint of his curiosity sound in his voice.

"I shall make inquiries at once, and notify you as soon as I have found out anything," he said, and then we were inside our suite, and the Underwoods were looking at the dowdy figure in mourning garb — Lillian with astonishment, Harry with keen speculative scrutiny. Then he chuckled,

"Come out of the bushes, Pocohontas!" he drawled. "You is diskivered'!"

Bess Conway laughed gleefully. She had thrown off the mourning veil as soon as she had entered the room, and Harry had been scrutinizing her face and her dumpy figure.

"Touche!" she said. "Aunt Madge warned me that no disguise could get past your eyes, but I was sort of hoping mine would"

"I've been had by many experts," the big man rejoined truthfully, "and I'm standing up to declare that your rig would fool anybody who hadn't been trained for years in looking out for phony get-ups. If you're trying to dodge anybody not intimately connected with make-up, you can rest your soul in peace."

"Thank you, kind sir," she said, dropping him a curtsey, so out of keeping with her disguised dumpy figure that we all laughed uproariously. Then she turned to me.

"Shall I be going out of here again today, before night, I mean? I must get back to my own apartment tonight."

"Not for anything that I want," I assured her promptly, "and my father left no word about anything except the shopping trip."

"That's all to the good then," she said. "Now, two things more One, if there comes a knock on the door, will you give me time to get into the bedroom before you answer it? Two, would it be possible for Adams to come up and smuggle me out of the hall in the same manner that you used this morning?"

"Of course," I told her. "But, he goes off duty at 6 o'clock."

"Then I'll go before that time," she said "I'll suit my time to his, if you'll please find out what hour would be best for him to take me down to that other building entrance I don't want to go through your hotel in this dumpy rig, and with that man in the offing, I must not be seen in my usual getup."

There was an edge in her voice that told me the appearance of the tall man, who once had known her under another name, was seriously disturbing her. I also knew from what she had intimated that she wished to speak to me alone.

"You don't have to stay in that rig all day, do you?" I queried. "We'll have Adams up and set the hour for your going, with plenty of leeway for you to get into your disguise again. Come along with me, now, into the bedroom. I'll help you peel the layers off."

Two Women Claim Victim Of "Amnesia"

DETROIT, Nov 26—(AP)—"I will stick with my husband whatever happens"

So speaks Mrs Douglas Yerke, a slim brunette in Detroit

"I love him, but I want to know what is going on," says Mrs Reuben David Dry, a plump nurse in New Orleans

Yet the object of their affections may be the same man—David Yerke 28, a self-claimed amnesia victim, and now a possible bigamist

He returned here 11 days ago, after having been missing since his sponge fishing boat was lost off Tarpon Springs, Fla, in December, 1945

During the intervening six years, he told his family he could remember nothing His wife, Douglas and their six-year-old daughter came up from Florida and joined him here

And down in New Orleans Mrs Dry, a convalescent home operator, looked closely Saturday at a picture of Yerke, and snorted

That, she said, was her husband, to whom she had been married since February, 1946, and who had left home mysteriously Nov. 13

"I don't believe he is an amnesia victim or ever was one," she asserted "But I have no charges to press against him"

Some corroboration of her story came from Yerke's brother, Herman, who recalled that money for trainfare from New Orleans to Detroit was sent to David in the name of 'Reuben Dry.'

Ageless Maestro

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK

WITH inflation and one thing and another, it is a trifle difficult these days to prove that even the best things in life are free. But the Arturo Toscanini broadcasts are a strong case in point.

This, the most glorious music in New York City, is free each week to 2,700 persons, the capacity of Carnegie Hall, during the dozen concerts which the maestro conducts with the National Broadcasting Company symphony orchestra.

The first Toscanini concert was Nov. 3, but by mid-September NBC had been swamped by more requests for tickets than there are available for the maestro's whole series of twelve broadcasts.

Inez Robb

There are no reserved seats, save a few in the boxes.

So it is literally first come, first served at Carnegie Hall every Saturday afternoon. I arrived at 5 p.m., 90 minutes early for 6:30 p.m. broadcast, but 300 Toscanini devotees were already ahead of me.

WE QUEUED UP in front of the big doors, each determined to get the best seat in the house. By the time the doors were opened at 5:30 p.m., the crowd had grown to a thousand men, women and children.

During the interim, a little group of men and women — the most inspired optimists in New York, it seemed to me — went among the crowd, asking if anyone had an extra ticket.

By 6:20 p.m., when the doors of Carnegie are closed at each concert, even the topmost gallery was filled. I was interested at the number of children in the audience accompanied by parents who, no doubt, hoped that when their offsprings were grown, they would remember having heard and seen one of the world's great geniuses in action.

A MINUTE BEFORE 6:30, the maestro himself strode onto the stage and the audience, as one man, rose to pay him tribute.

Before us we saw a man of 84, incredibly at the peak of his career, in full possession of his incomparable faculties and looking as ageless — as timeless — as the Sphinx.

He acknowledged the applause with a nod of his head—there is no time for nonsense in an hour's broadcast—turned abruptly to his orchestra, lifted his baton and for the next 60 minutes drew from it music so exquisitely beautiful that the big audience sat motionless, noiseless and spell-bound.

During that hour, the maestro conducted with a pace and physical vigor that would have exhausted a man of 30. In the Beethoven Symphony No. 7 in A Major, Op. 92, he seemed with might and main to be pulling out of that great orchestra the swelling, incredibly beautiful music that filled Carnegie.

He drove himself and the orchestra to a pitch of perfection that brought the whole audience, cheering and weeping, to its feet at the conclusion of the concert.

IT WOULD HAVE been a superlative achievement for any man, but for one who will be 85 in March, it was awe-inspiring. Yet he showed no signs of fatigue or weakness at any time. He made only one concession to his comfort. Between each selection, he drew a handkerchief from his pocket, and dabbed at his streaming face.

But always, he dabbed at his face while fronting the orchestra, never when he turned to the audience to acknowledg its ovation. The maestro today looks ageless, not young and certainly not old. His skin is pink and white, his fringe of hair like snow.

He carries himself erect, with only a hint of the hump between the shoulders that comes with age. And his gait is stiff but by no means slow or halting.

If he followed his usual routine, he left Carnegie Hall to go home, to dine at 10 p.m. with friends and to chat until 2 or 3 a.m. His physician says the maestro has not been in such good health in years, and now, as he approaches his 85th birthday, there is talk of another Toscanini concert tour through America in the spring!

Korea One Year Ago

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

A YEAR AGO Today the Allies' win-the-war offensive in Korea crashed and broke against a hidden Chinese wall.

In three days the U.N. army's hopeful victory march toward the Manchurian border turned into "the great retreat." The Allies, surprised by the sudden appearance of untold thousands of Chinese Reds who seemed to crawl from the very stones, reeled back to escape entrapment. Some units were ambushed and engulfed.

In less than three weeks the Allies suffered about 13,000 casualties, not including the thousands lost by South Korean (ROK) forces. Most of the 13,000 were Americans, although the Turkish brigade suffered heavily, too.

Hal Boyle

During the long pullback the U.N. had to yield Pyongyang, the Red capital of Korea, and then Seoul, the Republican capital. It had to evacuate by sea two American divisions —the Seventh Infantry and the First Marines—and scores of thousands of Korean civilians.

Later, in stubborn hill fighting, including deadly "Heartbreak Ridge," the Allies regained Seoul and most of the territory south of the 38th Parallel, the old dividing line.

But today thousands of square miles once held by the Allies are still firmly in Chinese Red control as the two sides quarrel like angry landlords for a cease-fire line on which to build an armistice.

And the fighting is still going on . . .

WHAT HAPPENED a year ago to change the Korean picture so quickly?

The main factor was the amazing secrecy with which the Chinese Reds massed a huge force in North Korea without its presence being confirmed by Allied intelligence.

In late October of 1950 Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops, following up the brilliantly daring Inchon landing, were pursuing a broken North Korean enemy. The war appeared to be about over.

One fast-walking ROK regiment even reached the Yalu river dividing Korea and Manchuria. Then it was ambushed by suddenly appearing Chinese "volunteers." The ROK commanders warned that the Chinese Reds had crossed over from Manchuria in large numbers.

This was taken as oriental exaggeration. Then the Chinese Reds swooped out of the hills and overran part of an American regiment — the Eighth Cavalry. That made higher commanders really uneasy. The pell-mell rush to the border was called back. The Allies regrouped.

On Nov. 24 General MacArthur launched his great attack. In a special communique, he said:

"If successful this should for all practical purposes end the war, restore peace and unity to Korea, enable the prompt withdrawal of United Nations military forces, and permit the complete assumption by the Korean people and nation of full sovereignty and international equality. It is that for which we fight."

DURING THE DAY the supreme commander flew over the enemy lines in his unarmed private plane. And one of his aides, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, said:

"That is what I would call thumbing your nose at the Chinese."

At one ground headquarters, MacArthur said::

"Tell the boys when they reach the Yalu they are going home. I want to make good on my statement that they are going to eat Christmas dinner at home."

It was only an expression of his confidence, but it was mistakenly assumed by some at the time that he meant it was possible to get U. S. troops back to America by Christmas.

The attack was planned as a giant pincers movement. The Eighth Army moved up the northwest corner. The Tenth Corps moved up the east coast of Korea, expecting to sweep over and join the Eighth Army along the Yalu, thus closing a giant pocket.

But the two great forces were under separate commands. They had better liaison with Tokyo than they did with each other.

BETWEEN THEM were scores of miles of mountain wilderness then held only by thin South Korean patrols—and an unknown number of the enemy.

Many of the subordinates of Lieut Gen. Walton H. Walker, the Eighth Army leader, thought the Tenth Corps moving up the east coast should be under his command, too, insuring better liaison and centralized authority in the field. They were afraid of the gap between the two forces.

One general officer, nine days before the attack, told correspondents he was afraid the Reds were mounting an offensive of their own toward Pyongyang. He expressed fear they would chop up the U.N. forces and split them down the middle.

This is exactly what did happen.

Tokyo headquarters had learned the Chinese Reds had massed more than 30 divisions — perhaps 300,000 or more men — along the Yalu river boundary. But how many had already crossed into Korea? The same headquarters estimated on the day of the Allied attack that the 100,000-to-110,000-man U.N. force then faced only 100,000 North Korean and Chinese Reds.

Many frontline commanders were warily certain there were many more than that. There were —frightfully many more.

THE LURKING Chinese struck heavily back on the second night of the offensive. In three tremendous night counterattacks they smashed the Allied drive. The long road back again.

Two days later Tokyo headquarters revised the enemy number in Korea upward to 200,000 Chinese and 60,000 Reds.

The Chinese had pulled one of the great military surprises of history.

Today, after a year of struggle that cost the Allies 70,000 casualties, the U.N. army has a firm line across the Peninsula and regained much of the land it held before.

Gen. Walker is dead. The Tenth Corps is now under field command of the new leader of the Eighth Army, General MacArthur is in America.

The bold further steps that he plumped for to gain victory are still untaken. The war is in virtual stalemate, and armistice is still in the air.

It has been a crowded, indecisive year. The best thing about it is that most of the American soldiers who fought so bitterly and bravely a year ago are now back home.

Resume Five-Day Week At Bucyrus Plant

Special To The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 26—Resumption of the five-day week will become effective at the General Electric Company's fluorescent lamp works here next week, company officials reported today.

For the past six weeks, the plant has been on a four-day week because of a large inventory of lamps. The plant employs about 500 men and women.

Company officials also reported today that in a National Labor Relations Board bargaining election, conducted at the plant last week, the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine workers (IUE-CIO) was retained as bargaining agent of the employes.

A total of 180 votes was cast for the IUE while the rival United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (UE) union received 132 votes. The election was supervised by a representative of the NLRB.

Over 17,000,000 lbs. of sugar

It's almost impossible, isn't it, to imagine such a quantity as one hundred million pounds of flour, or thirty-six million eggs, or seventeen million pounds of sugar.

But these are very real figures, indeed, at Omar. For they represent the amount of these ingredients Omar purchases and uses in just one year.

Now, these figures certainly indicate to you the enormous size of the Omar Bakeries. However, since there is no particular merit in size, alone, we believe their more important significance is this . . . Because Omar's Purchasing Department buys in such huge quantities, it is clear that they are able to insist that Omar gets the very finest quality ingredients on the market.

Fine ingredients are, of course, the very basis for producing top quality breads and pastries . . . That's why we believe you will find these figures interesting. They help you to understand why Omar Breads and Pastries are superior.

A Foreign Policy For Americans

By Senator Robert A. Taft

CHAPTER 10

The Russian Menace. How Do We Meet It in the Far East?

(PART 1)

DOMINATION OF KOREA by the Russian Communists would certainly be a threat to the security of Japan.

The Administration decided, however, that it would withdraw all troops from Korea and would not undertake to defend Korea by the use of American soldiers. As a long-term policy this was generally in accord with the principles I have outlined.

SENATOR TAFT

Because of the importance of Korea, however, there should have been no question that the situation demanded all-out arms aid to provide the South Koreans with a complete defense against attack from the north. Perhaps it even justified a definite notification, at least to the North Koreans, that if they chose to attack they would find themselves at war with the United States and that we would return with sea and air forces to fight that war.

But the Administration not only failed to adopt either of these two policies, but it went very much further in a definite statement of policy by Secretary Acheson in January 1950, saying that except for Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines we could not assure the rest of the Far East against attack. I believe that our government invited the invasion of Korea by the weakness of its policy in these respects.

At the time we withdrew from Korea we declared that we would give armed assistance to Korea. The Mutual Defense Assistance Act of 1949 authorized the President to furnish military assistance to South Korea. Assistant Secretary Webb, of the State Department, testified specifically before both House and Senate committees that the appropriation sought was for the purpose of helping the Koreans to fight external aggression. The bill was passed in October 1949. By June 1950 not a single bit of aid had been given, except merely some small arms that had been left behind when we withdrew from Korea.

A Weak Policy

Apparently someone in the State Department had changed the policy of giving the South Koreans sufficient arms with which to deter external aggression. The President admitted later, in his statement about Korea, that the government forces of Korea were armed only to "prevent border raids and preserve internal security."

Perhaps the policy was changed because someone was afraid that if the South Koreans had tanks and airplanes they would attack the North Korean Communists. Therefore, we gave them only small arms, which would be useless for offense and also for defense if the North Koreans attacked them. It was certainly a weak policy. To what extent it was again the result of a deliberate policy of not antagonizing the Communists in Asia, it is difficult to say at the moment.

That was a direct invitation to the North Koreans to attack. It was an invitation to Soviet Russia to believe, as it did, that here was a soft spot where communism could move in without difficulty. I think the policy, or lack of policy, of the administration brought on the Korean War.

A Policy Reversed

Then the President, on June 25, 1950 in one of those spasmodic actions which are more or less characteristic of this administration, entirely reversed the American policy which he had previously announced. When he moved into Korea after the North Koreans attacked I had much sympathy with his reversal of position.

We went into Korea on the theory that the United Nations was going to punish aggression in order to prevent aggression in the future. I think it is a sound principle, if you have an international organization with the ability to do the job. The difficulty is that we were relying upon a weak reed in the United Nations. The United Nations Charter is so weak, with the provision for the veto, that as a matter of fact there is no legal means of preventing aggression.

We got little aid from other members of the United Nations. Our own forces were so weak and limited that the country we were saving from aggression was practically destroyed. We were successful in defeating the North Koreans but when we were almost at the point of occupying the entire country we were attacked by the Chinese, in November, 1950.

A Russian Veto

That was the second aggression. The theory of our Korean action would require, as a matter of moral principle, that we then throw all the forces of the United Nations against the Chinese aggressors, defeat them, and march to Peiping. Unfortunately, that was an impossible policy for two reasons. The United Nations would not do it, because the Russians in the Security Council vetoed the action. Even the General Assembly, which has no power to call any member to act or provide armed forces, took a long time merely to declare that the Chinese Communists were aggressors, which was obvious from the very moment they moved into Korea.

In the second place, it was a wholly impossible military operation, to carry out against a big aggressor the kind of action which we carried out against a little aggressor. So we had been sucked into something which was more than we could undertake, and we found ourselves in an extremely unfortunate situation.

Underlying the whole situation is our policy toward Formosa. The only logical application of the broad general principles, which I have advocated and which we have followed in Europe, for meeting the Communist threat is to undertake to defend Formosa if the Chinese Nationalist Government desires assistance.

Easy to Defend

Here is an island, more than a hundred miles off the coast of China, which is entirely easy to defend against any Communist attack, with practically no cost to the United States. Yet in January 1950 Secretary Acheson warned the American people that they must be prepared for the taking over of Formosa by the Chinese Communists, and he stated unequivocally that we would not undertake any defense of Formosa.

I believe this attitude grew out of the pro-Communist policy of the Far Eastern Division of the State Department and the Secretary's strong prejudices against doing anything to help Chiang Kai-shek. Both Secretaries Acheson and Marshall seem to have a vested interest in the mistakes which they made in China in earlier days, and they are very loath to adopt any policy which will cast doubt on the correctness of their action at that time.

Apparently, it was General MacArthur's remarks on the subject of the strategic position of Formosa and the need of defending it which from time to time aroused the secretary of state and the President to a violent indignation against the general. If we really mean our anti-Communist policy it seems obvious to me that we should have backed the Chinese Nationalists in past years and should back them today on Formosa. If there is any chance of their regaining their influence in South China it seems obvious that we should not fail to support them in that action also, so long as it does not involve the use of American troops on the mainland.

TOMORROW: Senator Taft continues his discussion of meeting the Russian menace in the Far East and tells what he thinks our policy there should be.

Help From Browns, Redskins

Lions Take Over 1st Place In Pro National Conference

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(AP)—The Detroit Lions want you to know their youthful coach, Buddy Parker, know what he was talking about when he said "If somebody beats the Chicago Bears, we'll win the title in the National Conference of the National Football League."

Look at the standings today and you'll see what the Lions mean. Detroit tops the National Conference with a record of 6 victories 2 defeats and one tie.

The Bears and Los Angeles' Rams are deadlocked for second place with 6 wins and 3 setbacks each. And they meet next week in another one of the league's naturals. A defeat will just about shove either one out of the running.

Shift in Standings

The shift in the standings started last Thursday when the Lions defeated Green Bay, 52-35 to go into a three-way tie with the Rams and Bears. Then yesterday the Cleveland Browns and Washington Redskins gave the Lions a helping hand.

The Browns defeated the Bears, 42-21, to strengthen their position at the head of the American Conference with an 8-1 record while the Redskins pulled the surprise of the day by downing the Rams, 31-21.

Meantime the New York Giants remained at the Browns' heels by shutting out the Chicago Cardinals, 10-0.

In other games, the winless New York Yanks struck from behind in the last quarter to tie the San Francisco 49ers, 10-10, and the Pittsburgh Steelers nipped the Philadelphia Eagles, 17-13.

Rob Goode and veteran Sammy Baugh combined to give the Redskins their triumph over the Rams. Goode scored the first 2 Washington touchdowns and carried 23 times for 148 yards. Baugh completing 7 of 13 aerials, passed for two more six-pointers.

Bob Waterfield's passing led to two of the Rams tallies, both late in the game.

Field Goal

An 18-yard field goal by Ray Poole and an 81-yard return on a punt by newly acquired Bosh Pritchard, both in the second period, were all the Giants needed to turn back the Cardinals.

The Eagles, usually a strong first half team turned their system around but didn't have enough to match Pittsburgh's first half touchdowns by Fran Rogel and Lynn Chandnois and Joe Gerl's field goal. Philadelphia's TDs came on a 15-yard Adrian Burk to Pete Pihos pass and a 16-yard buck by Jim Farmer.

The 49ers had a 10-point lead over the Yanks going into the final quarter, thanks to John Strzykalski's touchdown and Gordy Soltau's 21-yard field goal. Then Bob Celoni replaced George Ratterman at quarterback. He set up with passes a 11-yard touchdown plunge by Sherm Howard and with only about a minute remaining Harve Johnson booted a 23-yard field goal to tie the score.

TV Blackout Called Mistake

Set Makers Trying To Get NCAA To Relent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—Radio and television set makers say this year's curb on televised college football games was a mistake and disclosed they are launching a drive to give viewers a wider choice in the future.

Manufacturers said yesterday they are trying to get the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), which now has a tight control on televised football, to change its 1951 experimental policy of offering about one game a week.

NCAA has maintained television threatens to kill off college football, particularly in the smaller schools. It reasons fans will stay home to watch big games on TV rather than attend a local game.

Manufacturers said this reasoning is all wrong, and cite experiences in both baseball and football to back up their arguments.

"The fallacy of the NCAA policy may be noted in the fact that college football has enjoyed phenomenal progress with the development of television," they said in a statement.

"The dollar income of college football in 1950 (paid admissions), for example, was well above the 1947 peak year of income for most sports. This is important to note because through 1950 college football was the most widley televised of all sports."

Princeton Coach Says "So Long" To Greatest Back

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(AP)—Princeton Coach Charlie Caldwell said "so long" today to perhaps the greatest back in Nassau's history—daring Dick Kazmaier.

Caldwell now faces the task of finding someone to take the place of the All-America runner and passer who will be graduated in June. But just as Caldwell found 10 stalwarts to take the place on offense of the ten who were graduated last year, he'll probably find someone to replace Kaz.

The Tigers won their 22nd straight game Saturday by beating Dartmouth, 13-0, to wrap up their second Ivy League title in a row. The triumph was an expected one, but it was marred by an injury to Kazmaier.

Dick was hit hard in the second period while completing a pass, and was taken out of the game. At first, his injury was diagnosed as a minor concussion. But later it was found that he fractured his nose, too.

Caldwell kept him on the bench through the fourth period, but sent him in for the final minute with strict instructions not to handle the ball. Kazmaier's teammates carried him off the field at the end of the game, while Palmer Stadium crowd rose and rang "Old Nassau," the Princeton alma mater.

Before he was put out of commission, Kazmaier gained 120 yards to bring his season total to 1,827 yards and his career total to 4,357 yards. He was leading the nation in total offense before the game, but he'll probably be overtaken before the final returns are in.

Double Main Event Booked at Armory

A double main event has been booked for Thursday night's wrestling card at the army, Promoter Les Fishbaugh announced today.

Ruffy Silverstein will meet Jules LaRance in one match while Maurice Roberre and Tony Sinatra will tangle in the second. Both matches will be for two out of three falls with a 60 minute time limit.

Irish McGee and Joe Wolfe will meet in the 30-minute opener at 8:30. Tickets for the bouts may be purchased at Markert and Lewis until Thursday night and at the armory door.

Jones' Six TDs Gives Browns Win Over Bears

Chicago Eleven Beaten, 42-21 In Rough Game

By BUD SPRUNGER

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26—(AP)—Dub Jones tied the pro football scoring record yesterday and his coach says the Cleveland Browns' halfback might have broken it—if the game had not been so rough.

The quiet, lanky Tulane graduate scored all 6 Cleveland touchdowns as the champion Browns drubbed the Chicago Bears, 42-21. The last 5 times Jones got his hands on the ball, over the goal he went.

The 6 jaunts over the goal matched the mark set in 1929 by Ernie Nevers. Nevers, then playing for the Chicago Cards, also had the Bears for opponents when he ran wild.

Although Jones looked fairly sure of running over again and setting a new mark, Coach Paul Brown took him out of the game before he had the chance. The coach, who said the game was "in a class by itself" when it comes to dirty play, decided things were getting too rough to risk his 205-pound 6-foot 4-inch running star.

Record for Penalties

So bitter was the encounter that officials paced off 374 yards in penalties for 37 rule infractions—the most yardage walked off in National League history. The Browns drew a record 209 yards the 21 times the whistle was blown against them.

Brown said Jones' running was the "finest I have ever seen."

It made the halfback—now in his fourth year as a pro—look like the answer to the Browns' trouble on offense.

Until this year the Browns depended almost entirely for their points on passes and a smashing fullback.

But this season Fullback Marion Motley—troubled by injured knees—slowed down. That took away the threat of his breaking loose on a trap play and allowed defenses to concentrate on rushing passer Otto Graham.

Jones, with his end runs and fancy broken field sprinting, gives the Browns a running attack again. In nine rushing plays he netted 118 yards against the Bears and caught three passes for another 80.

Three times his jaunts around the ends produced touchdowns—on dashes of 11, 27 and 43 yards. Another time he crashed off left guard for the 2 yards that ended a 34-yard scoring march.

His other two touchdowns were on passes from Graham—one good for 34 yards and one for 43.

Rules Broken

Just about every rule in the book was broken before the game ended—there were assessments for roughing the kicker, roughing the passer, an illegal formation, illegal equipment (a knee guard worn by Cleveland's Bill Willis), unsportsmanlike conduct, kicking a free ball, personal fouls, backfield in motion, a coach being on the field and—oh, yes, —off sides.

Three Browns—Graham, Alex Agase and Derrell Palmer—were injured and four times Bears were helped off. Graham got a broken nose, Agase a cut eyebrow and Palmer a sprained ankle. For the Bears Bill Wightkin was helped off twice and John Dottley and Johnny Lujack once each. None appeared seriously hurt.

End Ed Sprinkle who smashed into Graham when the quarterback got hurt picked up the ball Graham fumbled and ran 64 yards for the Bears' second TD.

NCAA Eyes Control Of Bowl Games

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 — (AP) — Marking the first effort to bring under control and inspection the mushrooming bowl football games since the war, the National Collegiate Athletic Association today officially approved 10 bowl contests.

Those certified as meeting NCAA requirements are the Sugar Bowl, New Orleans; Refrigerator, Evansville, Ind.; Rose, Pasadena, Calif.; Presidential Cup, Washington, D. C.; Gator, Jacksonville, Fla.; Orange, Miami, Fla.; Cotton, Dallas, Tex.; Sun, El Paso, Tex.; Salad, Phoenix, Ariz., and Pear, Medford, Ore.

The Presidential Cup Bowl game recently was cancelled by the sponsoring American Legion.

Requirements unanimously approved in principle at the NCAA 1950 convention cover competition by member institutions, collegiate representation on the administrative committees of the games, game officials, allocation of tickets and distribution of receipts.

NCAA by-laws stipulate that "no member institution shall compete in any such football game unless such contest is certified" and "no member institution shall participate in more than one such game during any academic year."

Any of the 324 member schools of the NCAA playing in uncertified games could be held in bad standing by the organization. This could lead to expulsion from membership and schedule boycotting.

"Certification of bowl games marks the first effort to bring under some control and inspection the many post-season games which have sprung up after the war," said Wilbur C. Johns, UCLA director and head of the NCAA extra events committee.

Italian Wins Five-Day Race

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26—(AP)—Piero Taruffi, Italy's ace among road race drivers, won the Pan-American stock car race yesterday with an average speed of 89 miles an hour for the five-day grind over 1,933 miles.

Taruffi's blue-gray Ferrari, although it won only one of the eight laps in the race, was near enough to the top each day to turn in the low total time. It roared over the finish line in Ciudad Juarez, on the U.S. frontier, with an advantage of eight minutes, four seconds over the second car, another Ferrari.

This was driven by Alberto Ascari, Italy's champion racer. Ascari, with equally famous Luigi Villoresi as co-driver, had a time of 22:05:56.

Third was Bill Sterling of El Paso, Tex., holder of two lap records in last year's race. His Chrysler had a time of 22:13:46. Troy Ruttman of Lynwood, Calif., was fourth in a second-hand Mercury.

Three Buckeyes Named

Illinois, Badgers Top All-Big Ten Selections

CHICAGO, Nov. 26—(AP)—For the second time in five years Illinois was pointing for the Rose Bowl today after a pressure packed Big Ten football windup.

Guaranteeing the Illini the Pasadena trip was Sammy Rebecca, a one-play specialist.

Sammy, 5 foot, 8 inch 165-pound Rockford, Ill., senior, booted a 16-yard field goal in the second period that stood up for a 3-0 Illinois victory over Northwestern Saturday.

It was the second fielder ever kicked by Rebecca, who was brought up from the "B" team in 1949 as a conversion specialist and was considered too small for anything else.

His first field goal was against Ohio State in his first year of varsity action. He hadn't booted another until Saturday, and it became the vital statistic that gave Illinois its 10th Big Ten title and second bowl assignment.

Throughout the Illinois' season of Eight victories and a scoreless tie with Ohio State—the school's first undefeated campaign since 1927—Rebecca's foot accounted for 21 points after touchdowns and the all-important three pointer that ended Northwestern's four-year jinx of Coach Ray Eliot's Orange and Blue.

The victory became Eliot's first over the Wildcats since 1946.

Illinois was the first team to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl under the pact with the Pacific Coast Conference. Illinois romped over U.C.L.A., 45-14.

From then on, Big Ten teams have dominated the Rose Bowl series. In succession Michigan trounced Southern California, 49-0, Northwestern downed California, 20-14, Ohio State edged California, 17-14, and Michigan returned last January to trim California, 14-6.

Illinois' opponent this time will be Stanford, the coast champion whose only loss in a 10-game season was, 20-7, Saturday to California.

Purdue, defeating Indiana, 21-13, placed second in the Big Ten to Illinois with a record of 4-1-0—.800. Wisconsin trounced Minnesota, 30-6, for 3-1-1—.786 and third place. Michigan, with a 7-0 surprise win over Ohio State, took fourth spot with 4-2-0—.666.

The pre-season favorite, Ohio State, came in fifth with 2-2-2—.500.

Field Goal Does It

Illini Prep For Bowl After Clinching Title

CHICAGO, Nov. 26—(AP)—Illinois landed six places and Wisconsin five to monopolize the 1951 All-Big Ten football platoons selected today for The Associated Press by conference coaches.

For the first time, two all-conference teams were chosen—for offense and defense. Heretofore, coaches named first and second honor lineups for the AP.

All schools in the league except Indiana were represented among the 22 players. In many cases balloting was extremely close.

Three berths each went to Michigan and Ohio State; two to Minnesota and one each to Purdue, Iowa and Northwestern.

Only two players were chosen on every ballot—End Lowell Perry of Michigan, an 18-year-old junior; and Halfback Johnny Karras, Illinois' touchdown triphammer.

Janowicz Misses One

Missing unanimity by one vote were Fullback Bill Reichardt, the 205-pound workhorse for Iowa's last-place team; Halfback Vic Janowicz of Ohio State, and Illinois' superb linebacker, Chuck Boerio.

Seven of a possible nine votes went to Fred Bruney, Ohio State's 165-pound pass-defense expert.

Tom Johnson of Michigan and Chuck Ulrich of Illinois won tackle assignments on offense by a wide margin. Northwestern's Don McCrae was the best vote-getter among the guards.

Leo Sugar of Purdue and Pat O'Donahue of Wisconsin had a clear-cut edge among defensive ends.

All other positions were closely contested.

The only sophomore honored was Minnesota's triple - threat halfback Paul Giel. The 18-year-old, 185-pounder proved to be one of the greatest "finds" of the Big Ten season as he aimed for a modern conference record for total offense by averaging nearly six yards per running or passing play.

Grouped with Giel on attack are Karras, Reichardt and Wisconsin's fine passing quarterback, Senior Johnny Coatta. Coatta barely edged out the Illinois' sophomore, Tommy O'Connell.

Rounding out the offense are ends Perry and Illinois' husky pass-catching, Rex Smith; tackles Johnson and Ulrich; center Wayne Robinson, a 212-pound Minnesota senior and captain, and guards McCrae and Illinois' captain, Chuck Studley.

The defense bristles with O'Donahue and Sugar at end; Dick Logan of Ohio State and Jerry Smith of Wisconsin at tackle, Dorai Tetenk of Wisconsin and his teammate, Bob Kennedy, at guard; Linebackers Roger Zatkoff of Michigan and Boerio; and Backs Janowicz, Bruney and Illinois' Al Brosky.

Janowicz, a 1951 All-America, is the only all-Big Ten repeater. Sugar, Karras and Reichardt moved up from last year's second team.

Few Games Left on College Football Card

Opponents in Two Of Four Major Bowl Contests Selected

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(AP)—With the exception of the Army-Navy affair and a few scattered games across the country this week, the book was closed today on the 1951 college football season.

The participants in two of the four major bowls have been decided, and one team has been selected for each of the other two.

The concensus seems to be that the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans has the best teams for the annual New Year's Day games. The Rose Bowl probably will be next, followed by the Cotton and the Orange.

Unbeaten Tennessee, the nation's No. 1 team, and Maryland, currently ranked No. 4, collide in the Sugar Bowl and it should be a battle to see. On the basis of its stunning 28-0 victory over Kentucky Saturday, the Vols probably will rule favorites.

Maryland in Triumph

Maryland, too, scored a thumping triumph, defeating West Virginia, 54-7. Both teams have been accused at various times of playing soft schedules, but they both hurtled every obstacle in their paths.

The Rose Bowl gets Illinois and Stanford, champions, respectively, of the Big Ten, and Pacific Coast Conferences. Neither outfit was expected to finish near the top before the season got under way. But as it progressed, it became more and more apparent that they were the teams to beat.

California, the September favorite on the coast, finally did beat Stanford, 20-7, in the final game of the season for both schools. But it was too late to hurt the Indians in their quest for the title. However, it did put an end to Stanford's bid to end the season undefeated.

Illinois made it, but not by much. In fact, it was a field goal by Sam Rebecca in the 12-degree freeze of Evanston that enabled the Illini to defeat Northwestern, 3-0, and win the championship.

Cotton Bowl Choice

The Cotton Bowl will send Kentucky to battle the champion of the Southwestern Conference, which has not been decided. However, Texas Christian has the inside track at the moment. The Horned Frogs were another team overlooked in pre-season ratings. However, their 22-6 decision over Rice Saturday broke a first-place tie.

But favorites fall more often than they stand in the Southwest Conference, and TCU still must play Southern Methodist, which dropped a 14-13 decision to Baylor. Texas still must play Texas A. and M., and Baylor has to tangle with Rice. So it still could go almost any way.

Georgia Tech, which has been able to rest easy for the past two weeks, having been the first team selected for a major bowl assignment—the Orange—kept in fighting trim by downing Davidson, 34-7. The Engineers are marking time until their opponent is determined.

It may turn out to be one of the Soutwest Conference teams or possibly Oklahoma, which wrapped up its fourth straight Big Seven title by polishing off Nebraska, 27-0.

The National Geographic Society says the word "turnpike" springs from the pikes used as gates on early toll roads, turned aside to open the way.

How to Keep Your Telephone From Being "BUSY" . . . Doing Nothing

Always replace your receiver carefully. If your receiver is not replaced properly your telephone is just as "busy" as if you were actually using it. This is equally true on a party line and private line. Calls can't come in to you—and, if you're on a party line, your neighbors can neither make nor receive calls.

So please try to hang up carefully, and see that your telephone receiver is always properly replaced. It means better service if you do. . . . .

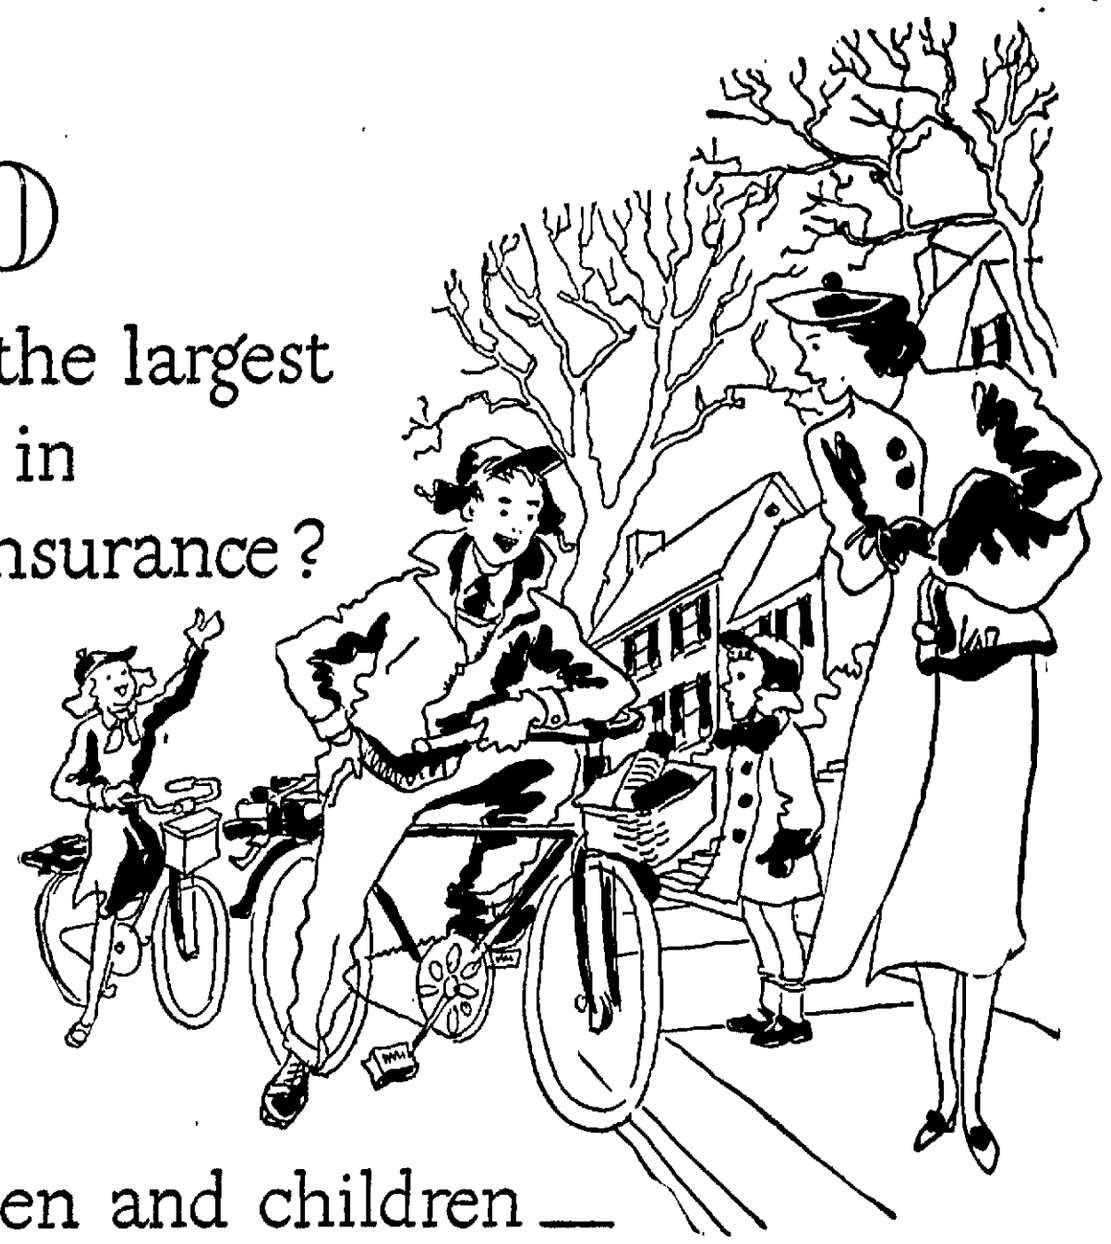
Who have the largest stake in Life Insurance?



Women and children — for they benefit most from its protection

The basic purpose of life insurance has always been to protect the family. As used today it gives protection in two ways. If the husband lives until the children are grown, it can provide money for retirement that he and his wife can enjoy. If he dies before that time, the life insurance funds go to his widow and children.

In addition to the policies held by husbands and fathers, wives too hold policies for the benefit of the family.

Many women who have jobs are also responsible for the support of others. So they, like men, buy life insurance to protect dependents and to provide for their own future. All together, women hold about 20% of all life insurance now in force.

America's 83 million policyholders, through life insurance, are making America a better place to work in and to live in. They are providing for the future of their families and themselves. Their life insurance dollars are invested all over the country. And their healthy habit of thrift is one of the nation's strongest bulwarks against inflation.

IF YOU WANT TO LIVE...

THERE ARE ONLY 2 WAYS TO GET THE THINGS YOU NEED AND WANT!

1 BY FREEDOM

YOU CAN WORK AND EARN THE MONEY TO BUY THE THINGS YOU NEED AND WANT.

2 BY FORCE

YOU CAN GET THE THINGS YOU NEED AND WANT BY TAKING THEM FROM OTHER PEOPLE BY FORCE.

- WHEN YOU FORCE A PERSON TO GIVE UP HIS MONEY OR POSSESSIONS (HIS PROPERTY) AT THE POINT OF A GUN, IT IS ROBBERY!
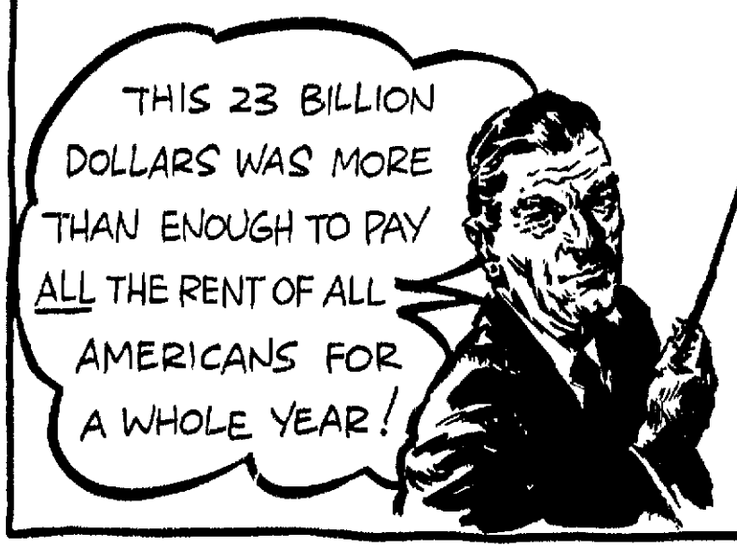
- WHEN YOU PERMIT YOUR REPRESENTATIVES IN GOVERNMENT TO PASS AND ENFORCE LAWS WHICH FORCE OTHER PEOPLE TO GIVE UP THEIR EARNINGS IN TAXES TO SUPPORT PRIVILEGED GROUPS, IT IS STILL ROBBERY — LEGALIZED ROBBERY!

IN EITHER CASE YOU HAVE FORCED PEOPLE TO GIVE UP WHAT BELONGS TO THEM WITHOUT THEIR CONSENT!



IN 1950, GOVERNMENT PLANNERS USED 23 BILLION DOLLARS OF THE PEOPLE'S TAX MONEY FOR SUBSIDIES, LOANS, GRANTS AND SPECIAL AIDS TO PRIVILEGED GROUPS

THIS MONEY WAS TAKEN BY GOVERNMENT FORCE THROUGH INCOME TAXES, CORPORATION TAXES AND SCORES OF HIDDEN TAXES.

Copyright 1951, F. W. Overesch

IF YOU BELIEVE IN FREEDOM, YOU MUST INSIST ON A MORAL PURPOSE FOR OUR GOVERNMENT.

LIFE, LIBERTY, THE RIGHT TO EARN AND OWN PROPERTY — these three gifts of God preceded all man-made laws and are superior to them.

So every individual has a right to protect these gifts against interference from any source whatsoever. If government is to have a moral purpose, it must protect these individual God-given rights for every person.

Therefore, the purpose of our government must be—

"TO MAKE AND ENFORCE LAWS WHICH PROTECT EVERY INDIVIDUAL'S GOD-GIVEN LIFE, LIBERTY AND THE RIGHT TO EARN AND OWN PROPERTY FROM THE INTERFERENCE OF ANY OTHER INDIVIDUAL OR GROUP — AND THESE LAWS MUST ALSO PROTECT THE PEOPLE FROM GOVERNMENT ITSELF."

Since an individual cannot lawfully interfere with the Life, Liberty or Property of another individual,— then a moral government cannot lawfully interfere with the Life, Liberty or Property of individuals or groups.

Murray Set For Wage Talk With U.S. Steel

Negotiation Will Set Pace for Other Workers in Field

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26—(AP)—Philip Murray, the tight-lipped Scot who leads the CIO and its million-member United Steelworkers' Union, will meet government controls head-on tomorrow when he opens new contract negotiations here with United States Steel Corporation.

Before the week is out many of the nation's other top steel producers will sit down at preliminary negotiations with steelworkers' officials.

Some of the negotiations may recess to await outcome of talks with U. S. Steel because "big steel" usually sets the pattern followed by the rest of the industry.

The men who make steel now average about $1.97 an hour.

Under the current wage stabilization board formula, Murray's men would be allowed a maximum increase of from 4 to 5 cents an hour.

The veteran labor leader has not yet put his demands into specific figures but he has indicated he will not be satisfied with a hike of 4 to 5 cents an hour.

The union has prepared a list of 22 demands to present to the industry. The principal ones, besides the pay hike, are a guaranteed annual wage, a union shop, and improved incentive programs.

Heads of the big steel companies have indicated they will take a firm stand against any pay boost. They have said their profits have been lowered by mounting costs of materials.

Atrocity In Korea Studied By Truman

KEY WEST, Fla, Nov. 26—(AP) — Confidants said today President Truman is making a thorough inquiry into the handling of the Korean atrocity charges.

An atmosphere of official silence, however, enveloped his investigation. And the same official silence covered his study of:

1. The alleged shooting down of an American bomber by Russian fighter planes.

2. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky's rejection of the American-French-British disarmament proposal.

3. A House committee's demand for justice department files on tax fraud prosecutions for its inquiry into internal revenue bureau scandals

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short refused to comment on any of these developments, but other White House aides, unquotable by name, said the President is reserving a statement on the atrocity charges until he has all the facts at his command.

In his only public comment on the atrocity charges, the President termed the charges horrible and said if true it was the most uncivilized thing that has happened in the past century.

Snowbound for Week, Family of 4 Saved

JACKSON, Calif, Nov. 26—(AP)—The snowbound high Sierra was an unforgettable horror today to a family of four—including a one-year-old baby They were rescued after starving for a week near 8,600-foot Kit Carson Pass.

The timely arrival of rescuers probably saved the life of Ralph Hilton, 41, who had set out afoot in serach of aid He had left behind in a mountain cabin his wife, Lillian, 40; their daughter, Betty, 16, and their year-old grandson, Ronald Hilton. They had almost no food but they could keep warm

The four had taken refuge in the deserted cabin last Monday after their auto became stalled three-quarters of a mile away on a mountain roadway supposedly closed for the winter

Barkley Tours Korea Front

TOKYO, Nov. 26—(AP)—The 74-year-old Vice President of the United States, back from a strenuous three-day tour of Korea's rugged battle front, told newsmen today he would willingly go to Moscow or anywhere else in the world if it would promote peace.

The "Veep," Alben Barkley, made the comment to newsmen who had asked him the question.

He expressed optimism about the prospects of a Korean Peace.

Barkley has said he came to Korea to gather information for President Truman.

Today newsmen told him there was one report he had come to approach Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Allied supreme commander in the Far East, to take Gen. Eisenhower's job in Europe.

"It is so utterly groundless, it appears ridiculous," he replied.

Barkley planned to meet Emperor Hirohito tomorrow and to talk with Japanese leaders. He will not go to Formosa but still was undecided about a visit to Manila. He expected to be back in Washington in mid-December and intends to keep a Dec. 7 speaking date in Honolulu.

Policeman Produces Fool-Proof Pistol

LOS ANGELES—(UP)—Tragedies involving a loaded pistol in the hands of children may be a thing of the past, according to a Los Angeles policeman-inventor, Tex Bjorklund.

Bjorklund has invented a device which locks the trigger of a pistol and prevents cocking the weapon. It is in two pieces, one of which fits into one side of the trigger guard with a cog which locks the trigger. The other piece is placed on the opposite side and locked in with a key.

Disclosure of Bjorklund's invention followed a tragedy here in which a child discharged his father's pistol, killing his younger brother and seriously wounding his mother.

SALAMI AND PENNIES

McKEESPORT, Pa. (UP)— A burglar stole $30 worth of salami and 200 pennies from the Tassone market. When police tried to pick up John Isenberg he started throwing pennies at them from the window.

Claiming It Was Hit, Railroad Files Suit

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. —(UP)— When a man bites a dog, that is news. When a railroad sues a motorists for damages, that comes under the same heading.

The New York Central Railroad filed a suit against Dane L. Trueblood and James L. Lenhart. The suit claimed Lenhart was driving Trueblood's car and pulling a trailer loaded with gravel.

The trailer was left standing on NYC tracks when it became unhitched, the suit said, and a train hit it.

Now the railroad wants $2,439.48 damages.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—(UP)— Stocks moved irregularly at the opening today in moderately active dealings.

Investors again displayed caution. The increasingly uncertain foreign situation again dampened trading spirit.

Price movements throughout the list at the opening were small either way with a large number of pivotals holding at their previous close.

A few large blocks changed hands in the first few minutes of dealings. Radio Corp., which has been particularly active in recent sessions, opened on a block of 3,500 shares at 21, off ¼.

In the specialties, fractional gains were noted in American Telephone, Lehman Corp., International Telephone and United Airlines.

Rails were mixed. Atlantic Coast Line rose ¾ to 71½.

Nickel plate slipped ½ to 35.

General Motors opened on a block of 2,500 shares at 49⅛, off ⅛. Other automotives were quiet.

Cities Service rose ¼ to 90¾ in its group. Kern County Land slipped ½ to 41½. Steel and utilities were quiet and generally held around their previous close.

It's Foolish to BE BRAVE

When it is a question of risking your life or losing some money, there isn't much sense in "being brave." We hope you never have to make that choice while looking into a gun, but if you do, regardless of whether or not you carry theft insurance, we suggest you take no chances. Better let us write theft insurance for you before that happens.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

As the ban on color TV is now official the next campaign speeches will be made with the usual black and white contrast to the truth.

I hear Mr. Truman is aggrieved that his speech to the lady Democrats last week was termed "political" . . . He was simply advising the Republicans how to run their campaign and said nothing of his own.

And Republicans who are a little churlish about the President flying up from Florida at taxpayer expense to speak to the Democrats are reminded of a simple counter-balance . . . invite him up to speak to a Republican meeting.

My goodness, the way they carry on you'd think free transportation was confined to the White House when anyone knows that thousands and thousands of our young men are being transported free to Korea, Germany, France, everywhere.

FBI Nabs Meyer Dembin

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—The FBI today announced the surrender of one of its ten top fugitives, sought for 16 years for bank robbery.

The announcement said the fugitive, Meyer Dembin, described as a New York East Side "tough guy," walked into the U. S. District Attorney's office in that city this morning and gave himself up.

When FBI agents arrived at the office to take him into custody, he was quoted as saying: "I surrendered because I was tired of running away from the FBI."

Dembin, now 39, was just 23 years old when he is alleged to have taken part in the $19,779.15 robbery of the First National Bank of Sparkill, N. Y., on Feb. 1, 1935.

Larkins Asks Big 10 Study Officiating

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26—(AP)—Athletic Director Richard Larkins of Ohio State University today suggested to the Big Ten that the question of officiating be discussed at its December meeting.

Larkins said this did not constitute a protest of officiating in the Ohio State-Michigan football game last Saturday.

"There is no such thing as a formal protest," said Larkins. "I don't want to be put in a position of alibing or cry-babying about the Michigan game."

Larkins said if, and when, the subject of officiating comes on the agenda for the Big Ten he does not plan to attack the officiating in the Ohio State-Michigan game specifically.

He said any objections he may have to officiating will be presented generally and will not deal with any one game

The Big Ten meets Dec. 7 and 8 in Chicago. Larkins' wire was directed to Kenneth (Tug) Wilson, Big Ten commissioner.

Larkins said the subject of officiating comes up for discussion from time to time.

He said any stories that his wire constituted a formal protest are erroneous.

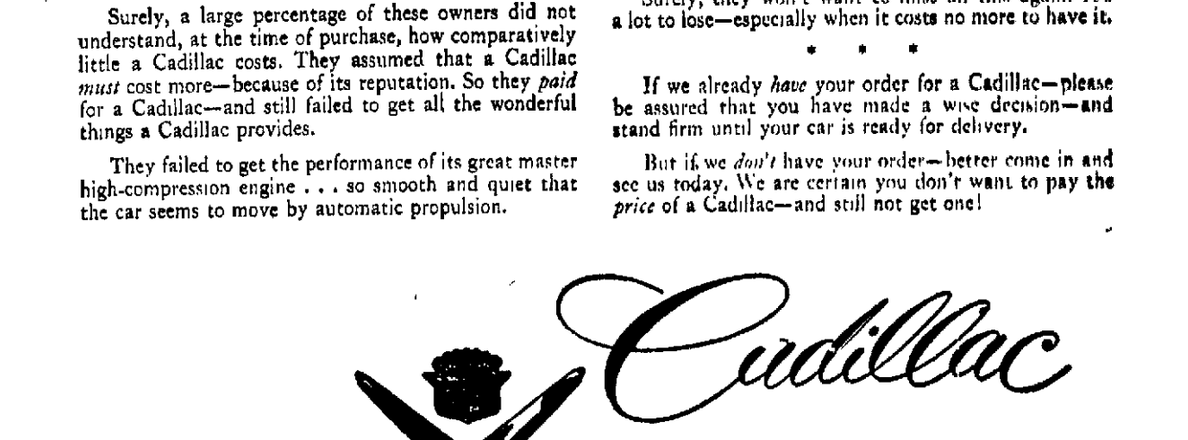
Twenty Models of Other Makes of Cars Cost More!



Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

There are hundreds of thousands of people who should be intensely interested in what we are writing here.

They are the people who paid more for their cars than a Cadillac costs—and still didn't get a Cadillac.

You see—there are five manufacturers of motor cars who produce a total of twenty models which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac. And during recent years, hundreds of thousands of people have taken title to these higher-priced models.

Surely, a large percentage of these owners did not understand, at the time of purchase, how comparatively little a Cadillac costs. They assumed that a Cadillac must cost more—because of its reputation. So they paid for a Cadillac—and still failed to get all the wonderful things a Cadillac provides.

They failed to get the performance of its great master high-compression engine . . . so smooth and quiet that the car seems to move by automatic propulsion.

They failed to get the soft, gliding Cadillac ride that makes every road a better road, and makes the longest journey a day of pleasure and relaxation.

They failed to get the wonderful prestige which marks the Cadillac owner as a man distinctly apart.

And, of course, they failed to get the priceless personal satisfaction of owning the "Standard of the World"—the car which, for fifty years, has been built to the highest standards it is practical to attain.

Surely, they won't want to miss all this again. It's a lot to lose—especially when it costs no more to have it.

If we already have your order for a Cadillac—please be assured that you have made a wise decision—and stand firm until your car is ready for delivery.

But if we don't have your order—better come in and see us today. We are certain you don't want to pay the price of a Cadillac—and still not get one!

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Profile of Robert E. Sherwood

Back when I was a boy, the ambition was to be profiled in "The New Yorker" or, if you couldn't manage that, to wangle some sort of success story in "The American" magazine, which at the time was in love with anyone who had earned $3,000,000 especially if he had started out as a shoe clerk.

That's all over now. The new thing, the latest word, is to be profiled on television by Ed Sullivan, the Boswell of Helen Hayes, Oscar Hammerstein, and most recently Robert E. Sherwood. They're all estimable people—offhand, I can't think of three people more worth of biography—but I keep thinking that they are doing more for Mr. Sullivan than Mr. Sullivan is doing for them. Miss Hayes brought along her charm and her talent; Mr. Hammerstein brought his lyrics; Mr. Sherwood, excerpts from his plays—all pearls of great price. In return Mr. Sullivan fell all over himself with awe at their great accomplishments—not, however, getting so thunderstruck as to forget to advise us to go buy a Mercury.

John Crosby

Whether the biographies are being had or not is the concern of their business managers. In any case, the Sullivan biographical shows are darned good shows, bringing us not only some wonderful songs and playwriting but also an extraordinary roster of talent. The Sherwood story last Sunday was enacted variously by Alfred Lunt, who was making his first television appearance; Helen Hayes, and Mr. and Mrs. James Mason. If things had worked out, Humphrey Bogart would have been around, too, playing his old role in "The Petrified Forest."

NEW PREMIER. Sir Kwaja Nazimuddin (above) has stepped down as Governor-General of Pakistan to take over as Premier succeeding the assassinated Liaquat Ali Khan.

But things didn't work out. Mr. Sherwood and Mr. Sullivan would have liked to have presented excerpts from "The Petrified Forest," "Reunion in Vienna," "Idiot's Delight" and Waterloo Bridge," but the motion picture companies, which own these properties, were farsighted enough to insert television clauses in their contracts as far back as 1927 and they wouldnt release even an excerpt from them for television.

That took out of action four of Sherwood's best plays but quite a lot was left. Miss Hayes opened the proceedings with a long speech from "Acropolis," a play that has never been produced in this country. The Masons, playing the roles originally played by Jane Cowl and Philip Merivale, followed with a substantial portion of the second act of "The Road to Rome," Mr. Shewood's first play.. This bit, in which the wife of a Roman consul talks Hannibal out of capturing a defenseless Rome, partly by the exercise of her brains and partly by the exercise of the rest of her, is hisptrically preposterous but is so entertainingly written that you don't really give a damn.

MR. MASSEY delivered the farewell-to-Springfield speech from "Abe Lincoln of Illinois," which is hardly typical of Mr. Sherwood since it was about 90 per cent authored by Abraham Lincoln. (This about evens up Sherwood and the White House. Sherwood wrote a lot of President Roosevelt's speeches. Mr. Lincoln wrote a lot of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois.")

Easily the most moving passage came at the end in a scene from "There Shall Be No Night," when Alfred Lunt, looking every inch the Nobel-Prize winning scientist he was playing, stated the theme which has run consistently through a lot of Mr. Sherwood's work. Simply stated, this thesis, a debatable one, is that warfare is a psychological disease which will eventually be conquered like any other disease.

* * *

I WAS A LITTLE annoyed when they brought on the half-naked dancing girls for the usual close. Seems to be that in this case, they could have eliminated the dancing girls or, at very lease clothed them. Incidentally, Mr. Sullivan plans to do about one of these profiles or—as he calls them—salutes, about once a month. Tentatively planned for December and January, respectively, are Gertrude Lawrence and Moss Hart.

Psychological Dynamite

WAGE earners whose tax payments are withheld at the source according to a formula provided by the Bureau of Internal Revenue are now contributing substantially more to the U. S Treasury than they were contributing a year ago. This is, of course, involuntary.

There will be, moreover, no substantial adjustments in their favor when the books for 1952 are closed next March 15. Those who have made slight overpayments will be balanced by those who have underpaid. The withholding tax provides no leeway for manipulation by tax-dodgers.

Moreover, as federal taxes grow heavier, as they inevitably must grow, to keep abreast of an ever-higher rate of spending, withholding taxes will grow more burdensome. As far as that is concerned, so will that other prime source of current revenue for federal spending - the tax for old-age benefits, which is also a withholding tax.

Tax-consciousness is going to reach its all-time high in the United States within the next few years.

That is why there is so much psychological dynamite wrapped up in the evidence that easy morality and downright illegality have crept into the Bureau of Internal Revenue and perhaps into the Department of Justice. In a population galled by the burden of confiscatory taxation, any evidence of wrongdoing among tax collectors could start a tax revolt which would make it as difficult to collect taxes here as it always has been in countries noted for the corruption of their governments.

Meeting of Minds

GOVERNOR LAUSCHE'S invitation to three dozen Ohioans to help him resolve the question of a special session of the General Assembly on the turnpike issue is a gesture of hopefulness.

But scanning the list of names, an Ohioan who has nothing to contribute to this weighty discussion except sympathy must wonder whether or not such a meeting will be worth the holding.

The turnpike proposal is in trouble because the turnpike commission's authority to obtain a right-of-way is not strong enough, in the opinion of certain lawyers who are advising potential investors in turnpike bonds. It has been suggested that a special session of the General Assembly could change the turnpike law so as to give the commission enough authority to satisfy the skeptical lawyers. Hence, the governor's invitation to the three dozen Ohioans who are to have a meeting of minds on whether or not to call a special session. The question is whether or not a special session could be restrained from changing the turnpike law in other respects, perhaps for the worse. It's a dilemma for Governor Lausche.

If he can resolve it with three dozen minds as far apart as the president of the Ohio CIO council and R. W. Litchfield of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., it will be the best trick of the year. It would have been simpler to have invited the lawyers who have sensed the prospect of endless litigation.

Standing Offer

THE deep thinkers of the Kremlin have come up with a theory about the recent security order in this country that they may actually believe.

They are claiming in their propaganda to the Russian people that the purpose of the order is to preserve America's "iron curtain."

Ignorance of the way things are done in the United States may be at the bottom of this apparent malice.

Ignorance explains a large part of the apparent malice which crops out in the United States when things assumed to be generally understood are grossly misrepresented. For example, how many Americans realize that their information about Russia would not be supplied by their government, if Russia's "iron curtain" were raised?

It would be supplied by their own press, their own radio and by their fellow citizens who would take advantage of the opportunity to travel in Russia and report what they saw and heard. This is in contrast with the Russian method of distributing "information" about the United States. Every whit and jot of it is developed and distributed by the government, which controls every word printed or broadcast in the entire union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Convenient "Ill Health"

By David Lawrence

Would Mr. Truman Say "It's Slick To Be Sick?"

WASHINGTON

SOMEBODY on the "ghost writing" staff of President Truman has gotten very fond of the word "slick." It first appeared when the President became irritated over published criticism and took occasion to denounce some of the things being said about his administration in what he called "slick magazines."

Just the other day, Mr. Truman, in a speech before the Women's National Democratic Club, again used the word when he referred to the "slick public relations counsellors" which he expected the Republicans to be enlisting in the next presidential campaign.

LAWRENCE

The dictionary defines "slick" as having several meanings. While American slang uses the word "slick" as referring to magazines "printed on heavy, glossy paper," the dictionary also defines the word as meaning "sly, tricky, etc."

Maybe this will give the Republicans an idea, because they could readily adopt the slogan: "It's slick to be sick." That's a bit hard to say, but not very difficult to get across when one begins to examine the long list of persons who have been under fire in the administration and have suddenly resigned for reasons of ill health. Some persons who have been under charges have remained on the payroll just long enough to qualify for certain retirement benefits. It is said that sometimes, when retiring for ill health, there is also a bonus paid.

NOT ALL THE prominent persons who have been in the headlines recently and who have been giving up their positions for reasons of ill health are, of course, guilty of any wrongdoing. One official is reported to have said, however, that he really was being advised by his physician to resign from the government but that he didn't like to do it now because of the innuendo the action might convey.

Is it "slick" for the administration to let anyone resign for reasons of health when actually there has been wrongdoing which should be exposed to the fullest degree?

When charges were first made in the press against Chairman Boyle of the Democratic committee, Mr. Truman took it upon himself to give Mr. Boyle, metaphorically speaking, a clean bill of health. There was no suggestion at that time that Mr. Boyle was actually unable to perform the duties of the Democratic national chairman, and the defense by the White House against the charges made in connection with the American Lithofold case and loans at the RFC continued to occupy the headlines for quite a while. Then suddnely it was decided to make a change in the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee.

AN EXAMINATION of the letter by the president at that time indicates that he believes the charges which were made against Mr. Boyle were not justified. There was no wrongdoing involved so far as violation of any law was concerned, but whether the Democratic national chairman as entirely ethical in his post because of relationships with corporations that sought favors from the government was debated in congress, and it certainly does look a bit "slick" to use the reason of "ill health" when, as a matter of fact, the resignation of the Democratic national chairman was being demanded by Democrats in Congress, largely because they thought he had outlived his usefulness as the chairman of the Democratic national committee.

It seems certain that when Congress reconvenes there will be an investigation of all the cases where "ill health" has been given as the reason for season for resignation or retirement from the government in connection with published charges of irregularities or wrongdoing. It will become necessary to separate the sheep from the goats—to really give a clean bill of health to those who have done nothing wrong and are really ill but who are going to suffer from the innuendoes.

* * *

THERE IS NO doubt that some of the controversies that have arisen out of the exposures in congressional committees have produced a good deal of sickness here and there in the administration and that certain officials have not been able to perform their duties because of the weight of the criticism leveled against them. It is most unfortunate when innocent persons worry themselves to the point that they must leave the government service on account of ill health. But it is not in the public interest to let anybody resign, retire, or sever his connections with the government on the ground of ill health where there has been guilt and where the public is entitled to all the facts. To do this is to engage in what might popularly be called a "slick" practice.

No One Could Do Better

By TRUMAN TWILL

HEADS of thousands of families have been given the bird once more, amid jeers and laughter. It is time to reach an understanding.

1. No one can carve a turkey gracefully.

2. None of the knuckleheads who moan and groan over the way the job is done by 10-thumbed goons who tackle it in public on Thanksgiving could do it any better.

3. Jokes about what happens when papa gets the bird are unfunny.

There is some background information on this matter which is never brought out. For example, when turkeys or any other fowl are carved backstage in a restaurant, there is nothing graceful about the dissection.

Hairy-armed louts with knives that would cut your throat as quick as a wink and accessories suitable for the occasion pitch in and tear the victim apart with gusto and dispatch, wiping their greasy hands on their clothing and having a high old time.

There are no flourishes and no holds barred. And neither is there any delicacy about tying into the proposition with both hands and all 10 fingers. Backstage, the objective is to get the turkey apart, not to play Doc Kildare.

That brings this revelation to a more delicate matter, which is what happens when the female sex ties into a turkey-tearing project. This is something to make a man with ordinary sensibilities blanch and avert his eyes.

If you-know-what hath no fury like a woman scorned, neither doth it boast any savagery like a housewife with a turkey to cut up and no male handy to foist the job on. The procedure is like that of hungry hyena pouncing on a dead pheasant.

There is a crunching of bones and a rending of tissues, with pieces of meat flying through the air like a tornado hitting an abattoir. This is mentioned not to make the reader shudder but to make it perfectly clear that the only goofs on earth expected to be dexterous and suave while carving are men confronted with turkeys at dining-room tables in the presence of squeamish observers who would like to forget they are blood brothers in the order of Carnivora.

Or to put the matter succinctly, the time has come to quit making bum jokes about what happens when the head of the house is given a knife, a fork and a hot turkey at the dining room table. If the observers don't like it, they should leave the room before it starts.

Better yet, they should let it be finished before they enter. The head of the house is perfectly capable of doing everything that needs doing to a turkey if allowed to do it in his own way, which is not while the turkey is skidding hither and yon on an insecure platform and the carver is teetering on the brink of a stack-blowing in front of women and small children.

If that never happens again, it will be too soon to restore a man's faith in the innate decency of people who never should have let it happen at all.

Nature knows no pause in progress and development, and attaches her curse on all inaction.—Johann Wolgang von Goethe.

Federal Tax Scandals Will Liven Up '52

By Barney L. Livingstone

CONGRESSIONAL investigation into charges of corruption and misconduct within the nation's tax - gathering service appears headed for a long run on the Washington stage.

Though barely four months old, the investigation has brought to light alleged irregularities on a wide scale. More than a score of federal tax agents have resigned been fired or suspended. Two collectors have been indicted.

All this happens at a time when taxpayers are being asked to foot a $60,000,000,000 tax bill—highest in peacetime history.

The investigation has been widened to include virtually every phase of the tax-collection process—not the least being prosecution of tax frauds by the U. S. Department of Justice.

With this widened scope, the inquiry seems likely to continue indefinitely—certainly until next summer, and possibly right up to the 1952 political campaigns.

Even if it ends before the campaign starts, the inquiry could have a profound effect on voters next November.

The investigation was started inconspicuously last June by a sub-committee of the tax-writing House ways and means committee—chiefly for a quiet look at administration of internal revenue laws. The subcommittee quickly discovered it had something on its hands. One scandal after another rocked the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Six collectors of internal revenue were among those who got out of service or were left out. Two later were indicted on charges of bribery, tax shakedowns and other misconduct.

Starting with a modest $50,000, the subcommittee headed by chairman King, a California Democrat, recently acquired another $150,000 and probably will ask the House for an additional $150,000 after Congress reconvenes.

IN AUGUST, as the subcommittee's findings developed, Internal Revenue Commissioner George Schoeneman resigned because of ill health. His place was taken by John B. Dunlap, a Texan who had President Truman's promise of a free hand in "cleaning up the mess."

Suspensions came thick and fast under Dunlap's reign, and Chairman King was moved to comment approvingly on the cooperation his investigators were getting from the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Dunlap declared "nobody has had to prod me."

Out of the cooperation developed between the bureau and the subcommittee have come several steps which seem certain to have far-reaching effect on future actions of tax officials.

First was an order by Dunlap for an audit of the income tax returns of all internal revenue officials.

The hearings produced evidence that some officials were getting by without having their returns checked. In the case of Joseph P. Marcelle, who resigned by request as collector in Brooklyn, the report on an audit of his tax returns listed an understatement of income of $11,419 in 1948, and unsubstantiated reductions totaling $23,097 from 1945 through 1949.

The second step undertaken by Dunlap — at the recommendation of the subcommittee—was distribution of a questionnaire to reveal the financial status and net worth of all revenue agents dealing with the public—about one-half the revenue bureau's $2,000 employes.

It requires a listing of not only the agents' incomes, but that of their families as well. It also asks about such things as loans, gifts, mortgages and stock transactions.

"What we're after is the answer to the big picture—we intend to get it," said Dunlap.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, Dunlap's chief, has also pledged to go along with the committee in what King has called "restoring public confidence in the Internal Revenue Bureau."

Snyder has made no attempt to hide his concern over the effect of the disclosures on the tax-paying public. "We don't like it," he told newsmen, "but we intend to collect the taxes anyway."

Not all internal revenue employes have submitted readily to the net -worth questionnaire. Out of this reluctance have emerged some of the more unusual findings.

The subcommittee has uncovered instances of agents enjoying extended winter vacations with their families, expensive automobiles and multiple bank accounts—while earning around $4,500 to $6,500 a year.

Asked where they got the money, some agents said they had "sure-thing" systems for horse-racing betting. One reported spectacular luck hitting the "daily double" at Belmont Park—on a horse that was not running on the day in question.

IT WAS THE $10,000-a-year collectors of internal revenue—many of them political appointees—to whom the committee gave chief attention.

A number of collectors were engaged in outside activity that netted them handsome sums.

James P. Finnegan of St. Louis, now under indictment, said he had made about $40,000 a year on the outside. This included legal fees from an insurance firm doing business with individuals in trouble with his tax office.

Finnegan testified he was also on the payroll of American Lithofold Corp., St. Louis printing firm, at $1000 a month as a sort of public relations man and salesman's helper. American Litofold, a government borrower, had figured prominently in an earlier Senate investigation of political influence in Reconstruction Finance Corp. loans.

Marcelle, the Brooklyn collector, told of running up a $5,000 investment in a coin machine venture to $175,000 in three years.

Former collector Denis W. Delaney of Boston, like Finnegan now under indictment, was charged with accepting favors from firms in tax difficulties, and with taking a cut from an insurance firm selling its services to tax delinquents.

Subcommittee members have repeatedly pointed out that much of the criticized activity in the collectors' offices has been tied up with outside business.

It as former collector Finnegan who said a "hard day at the office" in his case was there or four hours work. On some days he just telephoned in, he said.

The initial phase of the inquiry, centering on charges of irregularities in collectors' offices, is now over.

But the committee has stepped into a new phase, focused on the handling of tax fraud prosecutions. Chairman King said the group wants to know why "so many" cases referred to the Justice Department have been dropped at "higher levels."

The committee decided to go all the way up to President Truman in its effort to get at the Justice Department files on such cases.

And after that is over, there are still the alcohol tax unit, and the processes for settlement of civil tax liabilities to comb over.

He claimed that General Wayne gave him his name and his coat and that he was more than 160 years old. Old Tom, however, counted the winter a year and the summer another, and this was believed by many to account for his great age.

About Critics

By Frank Tripp

Sports Writers of Long Ago

YE OLDE tyme sports writer is sort of recovering from his peeve against music and art critics. For 40 years he's sought to learn from them what he heard at a concert or saw in an art gallery. They only add to his confusion and he's mad about it. It was when he posed as an authority on football that he learned to henceforth keep his big trap shut.

He quit chronicling events on the gridiron long before the Red Grange era; had written profusely of Jim Thorpe, Frank Mt. Pleasant, Bemis Pierce, Frank Hinkley, Alonzo Stagg, Phil Draper, et al., and the cunning of Pop Warner.

TRIPP

He even remembers a game played by Connie Mack's Athletics football team, under electric arc lights 50 years ago; so of course he was the super authority of the group that went to the game together. Authority, me eye!

When he tried to untangle the antics of 88 players, 44 to a side, four complete offensive and defensive outfits divided into a dozen platoons, he couldn't have been more confused if he had been sitting on top of Heartbreak Ridge calling the shots of the Allies and the Reds. Today's football was an entirely new—and ruined—game to him.

THE NEWSPAPERS straightened him out next day to some extent, and he was grateful. Of the writers on art and music he cannot say as much—and he's sore about it. Why don't they write in the prevailing language of the land, he thinks

Then he remembers back when the editor-in-chief, top brass of his paper, sent for him one day and said: "What in the name of heaven were you aiming to say in this meaningless epistle which purports to be a report of a baseball game?"

"What does this sentence mean, for example?" he asked, then read it: "Loudy beaned the bull for fifty and went the circut for the bacon."

"That was the winning run," the scribe explained. "It means that Mr. Charles Loudenslager hit the Bull Durham advertising sign which stands in left field, for which he gets $50, made a home run and the game was over."

"Then why didn't you say so?" asked the big shot.

"They'd throw me out of the press box," was the answer. Which may be the reason why art and music critics write like they do.

A POOR GUY who was brought up on base hits, forward passes, hammerlocks, uppercuts, hook balls, dribbles—and deuces wild, when he gets old—hasn't a Chinaman's chance to look wise in an art gallery, a chamber of music or even keep awake over the book-of-the-month. That is, he hasn't if he must depend upon what the critics write.

He's sure they are just getting even with him when he reads that a picture he liked was astringent rather than earthy; that a number through which he slept was hung upon a framework of commedia dell'arte; that the husky basso he applauded at the wrong time was a rank pinch hitter from the minors and in miserable rasping voice; that the daub he thought a swell likeness of the old blast furnace is a modernistic allegoric portrayal of wicked man's destiny. He thought the figure in it was a puddler homeward bound with a jug.

All of which prompts the old sports writer to lament his sins; admit that everybody didn't understand him either. Still wish that art and music critics would write so he could acquire a smattering knowledge of their racket.

BUT HE'S far more disturbed about what has happened to football. Baseball is the same old game. Boxers, wrestlers, sprinters, tennis players, golfers, race horses still go the route in a contest, become known and favorites.

Versatility and stamina—ability to start and finish—still are the prime factors that make champions and stars in all except football. "I can't understand the game; just go to see the crowd," is a common comment about today's football. That doesn't make fans nor help the game.

Football has become a parade of numbers; more than anything else a test of the wits and cunning of the coaches; a flashing glance at an array of specialists, often relieved before they can prove their right to be in there.

The platoon system has made football the least understood game on the American scene.

MRS. R. C. GEER

Miss Marjorie Lee And R.C. Geer Exchange Vows

MISS MARJORIE MAE LEE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Lee of 524 Uncapher Ave., became the bride of Ronald Clair Geer Friday evening, Nov. 16, in the Fite Memorial Baptist Church. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert C Geer of 892 Davids St.

The Rev. Norman D. Renn read the double ring ceremony at 7 30 o'clock before an altar banked with bouquets of white chrysanthemums and palms

The bride, given in marriage by her fathehr, wore a wedding dress of ivory net over satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with sweetheart neckline and leg o' mutton sleeves. Satin motifs paneled the front of the full skirt. A coronet of pearlized orange blossoms held her fingertip veil of bridal illusion. She carried a white Bible marked with white and yellow baby mums, showered with greenery and satin ribbon streamers.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her twin sister, Miss Margaret Fae Lee. She was attired in a gown of pale green net over taffeta with sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves. She wore a matching half hat and carried orchid chrysanthemums.

Miss Brenda Geer, sister of the bridegroom, was candle lighter. She wore a yellow gown fashioned like the gown worn by the maid of honor and a wrist corsage of orchid chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was his brother, Gene Geer. James Erick and Richard Eller were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. A four-tiered wedding cake and yellow and green tapers centered the table.

When the couple left on their wedding trip, the bride wore a black and green checked dress with black velvet accessories. Pinned to her shoulder was the corsage from her bridal bouquet

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Harding High School. The new Mrs. Geer is employed with the Merit Shoe Store, while Mr. Geer is employed with the Erie Railroad. The couple are making their home at 232½ S. Prospect St.

UN Given Peace Plan

PARIS, Nov. 26 —(AP)— In separate peace moves, India and Pakistan laid before the United Nations general assembly today plans for breaking the East-West deadlock on disarmament.

India's Sir Benegal Rau led off the Asian-Arab peace drive with suggestions for a "study group" to try for a permanent end to the Korean war and for an assembly sub-committee to try to reconcile the western and Russian disarmament proposals.

Pakistan's Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan then introduced a formal resolution in the 60-member political committee to establish a conciliation group to negotiate in private on disarmament.

The members of Pakistan's proposed group would be Assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico, and delegates of the big four — the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Caudle

either Caudle or his wife. Committee sources kept their own counsel beyond conceding that a "fur coat" had figured in its study of the Caudle case.

The report called another mink coat episode in which Mr. E. Merl Young, former White House stenographer, was the chief figure Mrs. Young's husband was named in a Senate investigation earlier this year on charges of political influence in granting of Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans.

Caudle was fired Nov. 16 by Mr. Truman to "outside activities" the President said were incompatible with his official duties. This was after the King subcommittee had begun its investigation of his office as chief prosecutor of income tax frauds.

In an interview following his dismissal, Caudle said "tremendous pressures" had been brought upon him, but that, despite them he had "steered straight down the course, sending cases to the grand jury when every conceivable pressure had been brought against me not to do so."

He declared "the public will never know the force of these pressures."

Accident frequency rates for 1950 in all industries submitting reports to the National Safety Council showed an 8 per cent reduction from those of 1949.

Motorist Fined After Chase

Lester Raymond Ayres, 28, of Shelbyville, Mich. was fined $100 and costs after he pleaded guilty in Municipal Court today to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Police said Ayres was arrested on N Main St. after a high-speed chase through traffic at 10 17 p.m. Saturday. When finally stopped, officers said Ayres collapsed on the street.

Two other motorists were also fined in Municipal Court today by Judge W. Dexter Hazen.

Charles Herman Nexsen, 18, of Detroit was arrested on N. Main St. at 3 29 a.m. today and charged with speeding and driving without a driver's license. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs.

Carl Mannas Boger, 18, of near Caledonia was arrested on E. Church St. at 1:33 a.m. Sunday on a speeding charge. He pleaded guilty and was fined $15 and costs

Richard Eugene Swinehart, 22, of Brownsville, O. was arrested on Mt. Vernon Ave. at 1:12 a.m. today on a speeding charge. He forfeited a $25 bond.

Harold Richard Mills, 19, of Waldo was arrested on E. Center St. at 4:04 a.m. Sunday and charged with speeding. He forfeited $25 bond when he failed to appear in Municipal Court today.

Irate Parents Reject Scroll Awarded Son

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo, Nov 26—(AP)—A retired Army captain says he has sent back to President Truman a scroll which accompanied a posthumous award to his son.

In a letter to Mr Truman, Captain Eugene R Guild and his wife wrote, "May God forgive you—we cannot." The letter was attached to the scroll.

The Guilds' son, Marine Lt John N Guild, was awarded the Navy Cross posthumously and the scroll—signed by President Truman—came with it

Guild has written numerous letters criticising the administration's Korean policy. The latest, dated Nov. 23, and released to the press yesterday, said in part:

"Those noble words on the scroll may be used only by those who earn the right . . . by one Marine speaking of another, by a Lincoln grieving for one of his soldiers Your use of these words will heighten, not lessen, the anger of those who saw their sons die for a policy of fear and appeasement"

Your Good Health

Use of Alcohol as Sedative

Many people are in the habit of taking a little whisky to relieve their pains and aches, both real and imaginary without finding out first just what is wrong with them

There are a number of very real pains however, for which doctors have long prescribed whisky. With advancing knowledge, they are changing their minds about some of these

An example is the type of heart trouble known as angina pectoris, in which there is severe stabbing pain over the heart and down the left arm It is widely known that a small amount of alcohol will prevent and relieve this pain Many doctors have thought it did this by dilating the coronary arteries which carry blood to the heart

This theory was recently tested by making pictures of the heart action of a group of patients with this disease just after doing some exercises One to 2 ounces of whisky were given the patients from 5 to 30 minutes before these exercises The pictures were graphs drawn by an electrocardiograph, an electrical machine for measuring heart action

The results were much different than were expected. The pictures showed that the alcohol did not dilate the arteries of the heart when it was under tension Two other drugs, nitroglycerine and papaverine, did increase the blood supply to the heart

While alcohol can prevent or stop an attack of angina pectoris, it thus acts as a sedative, relieving the pain without preventing actual damage to the heart

This pain normally acts like a warning signal telling the patient not to over-exercise, and the use of alcohol to prevent an attack may remove this signal If the patient should then over-exercise he might do permanent damage to his heart or even bring on sudden death

Your physician who is taking note of modern discoveries, will tell you when it is unsafe for you to use whisky

IT'S A FIREBALL ENGINE

It gives you a lot to be thankful for

Let's suppose that this is you.

The car you're riding in, as you can see, is a Buick.

But what you can't see is the satisfaction which being behind that wheel brings to every day in the year.

Take the feel of it—the way it goes into action when you nudge the gas treadle. Quick. Eager. Willing. No effort at all. You just swoop up to the miles per hour you want.

That's because there's a high-powered, high-compression, valve-in-head Fireball Engine under the hood that makes every drop of gas do extra duty. And it's because there's a Dynaflow Drive,* feeding that power back to the rear wheels as smoothly as cream flows from a pitcher.

Take the way it sits the road. Balanced. Poised. Sure-footed. Snug.

That's because of a long list of things that Buick engineers have done to its ride—including a torque-tube keel that keeps rear wheels tracking true—and soft coil springs that individually cushion each wheel.

Take the way it steers. Easy. Light. Firm. On a straightaway—or coming out of a curve—it seems to know what you want it to do.

That's because of something the engineers call "front-end geometry"—and because 60 steel balls roll in their own little race track to ease each turn of the wheel.

Take its room, its comfort, its smart good looks—and its price.

Any way you size it up, here's a car to make you thankful for your good judgment in picking it, against the field.

All that is needed to complete this picture is you at the wheel of a flesh-and-blood Buick—out on the road for a sample of what we've been talking about.

That's easy to arrange. Just give us a call, and we'll do the rest.
